GOV'T REPLY TO IRELAND IS APPROVED BY CABINET

Text To Be Made Public Today—King Is Told Of The Decision

PREMIER CHEERED

Committee Formed To Act When De Valera Answers Note

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 7.—A meeting of the Cabinet which is expected to reach a momentous decision in regard to the future of the Irish peace negotiations opened this morning at the Inverness Town Hall, where the Provost of Inverness welcomed the Premier and other Ministers on arrival. A crowd of some thousands gathered in the streets, at windows and on roofs, and vociferously cheered the Premier, who was half an hour late, owing to his having breakfasted and had a long talk with the King at Moy Hall, whither the Premier motored early in the morning from Brahan Castle.

Later.—The Cabinet unanimously approved the Government's reply to Mr. de Valera, which was handed to Commandant Barton. The latter proceeded to Dublin at four o'clock this afternoon. The Premier sent a special courier to Moy Hall to inform the King as to the result.

No official information in regard to the tenor of the Government's reply is obtainable, but the text will be published tomorrow evening.

The Cabinet has appointed a committee, consisting of the Ministers now in Scotland, which is fully empowered to deal with the Irish situation immediately Mr. de Valera's reply arrives.

MAY CONFER AGAIN

London, September 8.—Although no inkling has been given officially as regards the Prime Minister's reply to Mr. de Valera, several of the morning papers state that the note suggests a meeting of Sinn Fein delegates on September 20, provided that the Dail Eireann agrees to remain within the Empire.

LEAGUE ELECTS SIX WHO WILL AID PRESIDENT

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 7.—The Assembly of the League of Nations proceeded on Tuesday with the election of six Vice-Presidents. The first ballot resulted in the election of M. Leon Bourgeois (France), who received 29 votes; Senhor da Cunha (Brazil), 29 votes; Mr. Balfour (Great Britain), 25 votes; Viscount Ishii (Japan), 23 votes; and M. Hymans (Belgium), 22 votes. On a second ballot, the number was completed by the election of Dr. Benes (Czecho-Slovakia.)

DEBATE ON PROCEDURE
(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 7.—At the sitting of the Assembly of the League of Nations today an animated debate arose as to procedure. M. Hymans (Belgium) emphasised the benefit of open discussion of the Council's report. Lord Robert Cecil (South Africa) warmly supported this view, saying that such discussion was perhaps the League's greatest hope, permitting as it did a glimpse of a future world's Parliament. M. Motta (Switzerland) argued that open discussion was contrary to the standing orders, but van Karnebeek overruled the objection, and the Assembly decided there should be a great open debate on the past year's activities of the League.

Twenty new treaties have been handed to the Secretariat of the League by Germany for registration. Most of them deal with her economic relations with Hungary, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, etc., but one of them restores peace with China. This action on Germany's part is regarded as a method of semi-officially proposing her candidature for membership of the League.

The League of Nations has received a request, signed by professors and students representing 14 countries, for the formation under the auspices of the League of an international organisation of brain-workers, so that science and education may be represented within the League in the same sort of way as capital and labor.

CHINA'S CASE At The CONFERENCE, V.

BY J. E. DOYLE

WHAT will be the future of Tsingtao?

Will Japan retain the privilege of using Shantung as an economic and military wedge, the Southern prong to the pincers already closing in on China's wealth and resources from Siberia and Korea through Manchuria and Mongolia?

Is the peninsula of Kiaochow to repeat the history of the Liaotung Peninsula?

These are some of the questions which must be decided at Washington while the Disarmament Conference is in session or the open door doctrine will remain a fallacy, the Far Eastern "question" will not be settled and disarmament will be impracticable and impossible.

For China cannot allow Japanese soldiers to patrol a street in Tsinanfu nor can she submit to the continuance of Japanese barracks there—within one hundred yards of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway station. In the event of hostilities or were it a whim of Tokio's Military Party (even as the wireless stations at Hankow and Peking or the Twenty-One Demands) the line that connects the Shanghai-Nanking Railway with Tientsin and Peking could be cut in six minutes.

Nor can China allow the Imperial Government of Japan to own and operate the Shantung Railway, formerly a private concern owned by German and Chinese shareholders and now guarded by Japanese soldiers quartered at strategic points all along the line in barracks built by Japan.

China cannot submit to an ambitious foreign power assuming further territorial, economical and political responsibility on China's own soil. The Disarmament Conference offers China opportunity to ask the Great Powers to join with her in calling a halt to the program initiated while all the world's eyes were on Germany and all the world's efforts were directed toward the defeat of her Kaiser and his Allies.

Shantung, a definite part in the program of aggression, is essentially China's case at the Conference. It is the latest in a series of indictments returned against Japan by a grand jury of international diplomats, captains of industry, authorities on international law, merchants, missionaries and professional men.

Britain, at Weihaiwei and Hongkong, is not going to stop building warships while Japan is enthroned at Saghalien, Vladivostok, Fusan, Port Arthur, Dalny, Antung and Tsingtao, with subsidised steamship and railroad lines connecting these ports, making possible discrimination against other than Japanese goods, and causing "competition" to be a laughable term at the discretion of Tokio. The war of 1914-1918 and its aftermath have taught us that the love of one nation for another is hardly a lasting love and the conference of colonial leaders at London went further than suggesting opposition to a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

Not long ago Number 10 Downing Street and Tokio were enmeshed in frantic correspondence which was started by the filing of at least fifteen charges by British coastwise shipping firms who protested against delays to vessels and charged Tsingtao officials with ignorance and inefficiency. In no uncertain terms were Japanese activities and methods in Tsingtao condemned at the conference of British Chambers of Commerce of China and Hongkong. And even today the Briton in Tsingtao does not trust the Japanese aims and ambitions although he admits the competence of the military and civil governors and marvels at the results of the Japanese occupation—be these results only for Japan.

And the British Government will be slow to forget the flat refusal of Japan to consider an Englishman as either Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of the Chinese Maritime Customs at Tsingtao. In his book "Foreign Rights and Interests in China," (1) W. W. Willoughby writes:

Germany having been ousted from that city and its restoration to China having been promised by the Japanese, that is, the Japanese being supposed to be only in temporary military—not civil—occupation, the Chinese Government

British Scientists Hear Address On Grandeur Of Atom's Inner Mechanism

Sir Edward Thorpe Tells Of Applications Of Science In War And Urges Chemists Not To Help Augment Its Horrors

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 7.—The annual congress of the British Association was opened at Edinburgh today. The program covers every field of scientific activity, including the newest problems and their application to every-day life. Sir Oliver Lodge delivered a popular lecture yesterday evening on "Speech through the Ether," in which he dwelt on the wonders of wireless telephony.

Sir Edward Thorpe, Emeritus Professor of General Chemistry at the Imperial College of Science and Technology, South Kensington, delivered the presidental address tonight. He dealt with some of the aspects of post-war science, and remarked, inter alia, that the National Physical Laboratory had grown very rapidly, and was dealing with an extraordinary range of subjects. Its researches were of great importance to national life.

The bulk of the President's address was devoted to the results of the latest investigations into "the superlatively grand question of the inner mechanism of the atom," whereby, he said, the "atomic weight" acquired an altogether new significance, demanding joint study by chemists and physicists. He concluded by referring to the application of science in the great war, and incidentally denounced the use of poison gas and other chemicals. He hoped the Association would set its face against the continued degradation of science in augmenting the horrors of war.

TO DISARM CHEMISTRY

New York, Sept. 7.—The opening session of the American Chemical Society's Congress which was attended by many distinguished British scientists, passed a resolution urging the Disarmament Conference seriously to consider the question of "chemical disarmament," as affected by the development and maintenance of the chemical industries of the several nations.

FRENCH FARMER URGEDTO GROW HIS OWN BREAD

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 7.—The first National Cereal Fair has been opened by M. Lefebvre du Prey, Minister of Agriculture. M. Ricard, an ex-Minister of Agriculture, addressing a conference in connection with the Fair, dwelt on the great importance of wheat-growing in France, and praised the efforts of the growers' co-operative organisations. The Minister of Agriculture stated that this year France would not be dependent on foreign sources for her wheat supply.

GERMANY GLOWS WITH INDUSTRY; WAGE 3D AN HOUR

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 8.—At the opening of the Shipping and Engineering Exhibition at Olympia yesterday Sir Trevor Dawson, Chairman of Vickers Limited, paid a tribute to the industry and enterprise of Germany, from where he had just returned. He declared that her engineering and electrical works were hives of industry, perfectly equipped, and that their output was high. Labor, he said, was working harmoniously at a wage of four marks per hour, or at the present rate of exchange, three pence, as compared with twenty-three pence for similar workers in England.

CHILDREN'S FOOD SHIP SAILS FOR RUSSIAN PORTS

(Reuter's Service)

DOUMER GOES TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF REPARATIONS

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 7.—M. Doumer, the Minister of Finance, will leave Paris on Thursday afternoon for London, where he will meet Sir Robert Horne, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the first preliminary conference on Friday in regard to the differences between the British and French Governments on the question of German reparations.

EGYPTIANS HANGED

(Reuter's Service)

Alexandria, Sept. 7.—Three Egyptians, convicted of murdering Europeans during the May riots, have been hanged, and there will be four more executions tomorrow.

TWO AMERICAN JAIL BREAKERS STILL AT LARGE

Amos Norman and Henry Muncie, the two former American soldiers who successfully carried out a most daring jail break from the American prison Wednesday night after making a murderous attack upon E. C. Eberle, the jailer, were still at large early today. Hopes for their recapture were dissipated last night after a most searching investigation into every corner of Shanghai had proved fruitless.

Jailer Eberle, who had a quantity of ammonia dashed into his face and subsequently was beaten and kicked by the two fugitives, was recovering yesterday from his injuries which are not now held to be serious. By good fortune none of the ammonia that was used touched his eyes. His head is badly bruised from the blows said to have been administered by Muncie, who had a revolver when the escape was made.

Exactly what part was played in the incident by the women who visited Norman and Muncie in jail some hours before they made their break for liberty has not been made plain, though the American authorities at the prison assert that the ammonia and the revolver that was brought into play were supplied to the two prisoners by these women visitors. One of the two women was questioned yesterday by the police when she was recognised as a well-known character of the dance halls of Shanghai. She denied having given aid to the two in prison and asserted she was ignorant of any purpose they might have had to try to escape.

It is now believed that Norman and Muncie succeeded in getting away from Shanghai before the general alarm was spread and the hope is held that they may be apprehended at some of the outports.

E. A. Brodie, the prisoner who distinguished himself on the occasion of the escape by spreading the alarm and by calling a physician to attend to the injured jailer, said yesterday that the two ex-soldiers had been giving considerable attention to railway and steamship time tables recently. It is accepted that they timed their attack on the jailer and the possibility exists that they may have had means at hand to get to a train on the Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo that left Shanghai shortly after 7 o'clock or it is possible that they could have made their way to one of several steamers that sailed Wednesday evening.

General Leonard Wood, newly appointed Governor-General of the Philippines, and Mr. Cameron Forbes, who have been conducting an investigation of affairs in the Islands are coming to Shanghai accompanied by a mission of ten persons and will arrive on September 17, on the Empress of Asia, according to a message received by Mr. E. S. Cunningham, American Consul-General.

While it is understood that the party will be here for only a short time, arrangements are being made by the American Association and The American Chamber of Commerce to give a dinner in honor of the distinguished visitors. This will probably take place on the night of September 17.

The party will go to Peking from Shanghai.

Unruly Laborers Loot Shops And Riot In Dundee

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 8.—Demonstrations by unemployed yesterday were marked by unruly scenes at various places in the provinces, notably in South Wales, Sunderland, Bristol, Liverpool and Dundee. The most serious disturbance took place at Dundee where windows were smashed and shops looted.

The Cabinet meeting at Inverness also appointed a committee comprising Sir Robert Horne, Dr. Macnamara, Sir Alfred Mond and Mr. Robert Munro to deal with the unemployment problem.

Why Is Venomous Wonk Let Loose In Shanghai?

By Bruce Hopper

Why is the Wonk, what is he, by what perverse sentimentality is he allowed to exist as the living lie to the tradition that the dog is the friend of man?

The Wonk is nobody's dog, and everybody's curse. He is the yellowest cur, the most poisonous pariah, the most shrieking anarchy of antagonistic, mongrel strains in the whole canine race.

The venom of the serpent, the disgusting habits of the hyena, and the viciousness of the hungered wolf, combine with treachery and cowardice born of fear to make the Wonk the chief enemy of man in hot weather.

Shanghai has its share of Wonks, as recent tragic events testify. The police began a campaign to exterminate ownerless, unmuzzled dogs, who are chiefly Wonks, and straightaway a cry went up from the dog lovers and doctrinaires of the theory of kindness to dumb beasts. Those who have been bitten by Wonks in various parts of China enter no such protest; nor do parents in daily fear for their children who are again seen going to school in the mornings. Day by day new victims report for the Pasteur treatment, both foreigners and Chinese, adults and children, but the unclean beasts generally manage to escape to bite other victims the following day.

WHY IS A WONK?

Every living creature expresses some angle of the divine purpose, according to the sages who made out our list of proverbs. They would have us believe that the myriad enemies of mankind, such as the insect tyrants who torment us during working hours, and madden our nightly dreams, have some commendable raison d'etre in the cosmic scheme of things. Like most sayings of the venerable lovers of epigram this old adage can be swallowed only cum grano salis Epsomis.

Speaking of God's creatures, why is a Wonk? He never has his day like respectable dogs. He never functions in service to man, nor does he contribute protection or amusement. He is the most uncompromisingly sullen beast on the face of the earth.

When the Pharisees of Israel spoke of the dog as an "abomination in the sight of the Lord" they were referring to the Wonk. When a good Moslem arrives at that state of mind which demands that a crowning insult be hurled he labels his opponent a Wonk. The Brahmin, interrupted in his sunrise reverie at Benares by the crowding of the town sweeper's washerman, says: "Go away, touch me not, thou unclean Wonk," without even opening his eyes.

And the odium is not without reason. Besides being useless the Wonk is offensive. He is the unclean beast of Revelations. He is the eater of strange flesh, and a midnight crony of the ghouls.

WONK IS USELESS

His Savage Uselessness, the Wonk, does not pull the sled like Buck and the sturdy Alaskan malamutes. The coolie is the draught animal in China. He does not guard his master's flocks (when he has a master) like Owd Bob, the son of battle. The old women herd the live stock, and cry warning when marauders attempt to steal the crops. Nor does he seem capable of winning a life-saving medal, in emulation of that gallant little terrier Tray, of Browning's fancy. The lurcher Wolf, idle campanion to Rip Van Winkle, was a valuable member of dog society compared to the Wonk. He doesn't bring home the goats, nor the water buffaloes. He does kill the neighbor's poultry, but it is for his own consumption and not his master's larder. He associates with the pigs, but does not keep them out of the parlor or the guest rooms of the Chinese inns.

Traveling in Western China is a never ending battle with the Wonks. There is a Wonk for every stone in the road, and the roads are paved for thousands of miles. The traveler is armed only with a stick, which he learns to wield with deadly precision. A foreigner, if he has room for footwork, is equal to a dozen Wonks in open war, but when the number gets up to fifty he is driven to the wall. The first Wonk at the outskirts of the village sets up the call to arms as the stranger approaches. Wonks far and near answer the cry, and whole delegation rushes out to meet the man with the club. No Chinese would think of beating off the curs, much less refrain from open expression of satisfaction at the stranger's predicament.

WONK IS UNHAPPY

And yet the lot of the Wonk is an unhappy one. Nature deprives him of ordinary dog enjoyments. He doesn't bury bones, his monstrous animal conceit makes petting dangerous, his tail is so constructed that he hasn't even the dog's precious medium of expressing pleasure, which is wagging. His bark is not a bark but a hideous rasping of exasperated demons.

He skulks about the graveyards so much that he imbibes the spirit of the lonely dead. He obeys the law of the pack when the stranger passes through the village, and a few moments of savage joy brightens his life until the tormented pedestrian is howled out of the gates. At night he gathers with his ghoulish companions to form a barrage around the stranger's camp fire, where they howl to the moon, growl to each other, and flash gleaming hatred from their greenish eyes and venomous teeth.

Such is the Wonk, Canis Major of China, a flea-haunted vehicle of pollution, whose complete extermination would be a blessing. There should be a bounty offered for every one killed. It would be more effective than police regulation in making the streets and even private gardens of Shanghai safe for children.

Even the most humane dog lover will agree that the life of the Wonk is a cycle of misery, that he is never a good dog till dead, never a happy one till buried. Why, then, suffer the curse?

SALT FUND'S MILLIONS IN ICHANG GOAL OF INVADERS

Szechuenese Told To Take City And Now Have South Bank

SUFFER REVERSE

Hupeh Troops Thrust Foe Back—Consuls Plea Refused

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

HANKOW, Sept. 8 (9 p.m.)—Szechuen troops are making strenuous efforts to capture Ichang—now that they have learned that some $3,000,000 of the salt revenue is lying in a bank there.

They have been ordered to attack today and already have occupied the Southern bank of the Yangtsze far down, abreast of the Ichang pagoda.

On the Northern Bank the Hupeh troops have driven back the invaders some miles, according to wireless dispatches from the gunboats which also state that the consular body has returned to Ichang from a fruitless conference at Kweifu where Pan Chen-tan informed them that there would be no truce until Ichang was taken.

FLEE FROM ICHANG

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Hankow, Sept. 8.—While refugees continue to flee down the Yangtsze from Ichang following the attack that was made on the city on Tuesday by Szechuen troops, full details concerning the struggle are yet lacking, though it is known that casualties on both sides have been heavy. Through the day Tuesday the Hupeh troops were able to hold their positions on the outskirts of the city and withstood a heavy attack made upon them by the invaders from the northeast.

All who could, took passage down the river on available craft. The steamer Tungting was overcrowded to the danger point when it left Ichang. All commercial activities on the upper Yangtsze are paralysed and with prices of all foodstuffs soaring it is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain supplies at any price.

In the fighting the Szechuenese have had a tremendous advantage in that they have artillery. On Wednesday the northern forces were hopefully awaiting the arrival of reinforcements, said to have been dispatched to their aid, but at the same time more Szechuenese troops were reported to be moving toward Ichang. The Szechuenese are under the command of Gen. Pan Tseng-dao.

It is reported that Hsiao Yao-nan has issued orders to Wang Yu-ching to move the Eighth Division to Ichang from Shasi. Admiral Doo Shih-kwei has dispatched two warcraft to the scene from the lower river and the British gunboat Cricket was also dispatched from Hankow on Wednesday.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Ichang, Sept. 7.—The recent battle resulted in total casualties of 10,000. Two hundred Northern troops were driven into the river and drowned.

The Szechuenese left wing is now attacking from the northeast, but has not yet penetrated the defenses, and Northern reinforcements are now arriving.

Meanwhile people are streaming from the city, and the s.s. Tungting, which is on the point of leaving, is crowded. Food is daily more difficult to obtain, and prices are soaring.

Hankow, Sept. 7.—According to authentic information, the situation at Changsha is easier, and one of the foreign gunboats has left.

All available Chinese craft at Hankow have been commandeered for transport purposes.

GENL. HO RETURNS

Peking, Sept. 5.—General Ho Eng-pu, Vice-Minister of War, who was sent by the Cabinet to interview General Wu Pei-fu at the Hunan frontier, returned to Peking yesterday. He visited the Premier this morning and tendered his report regarding the military situation and the peace terms arranged between General Wu and Chao Heng-ti.

CHANG IS RESPONSIBLE

Peking, Sept. 7.—The Government has been officially informed by General Chang Shou-tseng that he is solely responsible for the Lushan conference proposal.

The Cabinet has decided not to proceed with the matter in view of the general lack of support and the tacit opposition of the leading militarists, who consider that a conference is likely to aggravate the present national discord.

The Government, however, has taken a most important preliminary step towards unification by telegraphing yesterday to Generals Chang Tso-lin, Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu, asking for their views regarding the formulation of a system of self-government and clearly defining the respective powers of federal and provincial governments.

The message points out that, in consequence of the disturbed state of the country the cry for a federal government and the drafting of provincial constitutions was heard throughout the nation, but that, for various reasons, the Government cannot carry out such a program alone, and feels that a hindrance to national progress by a lack of distinction between the powers of the local and federal governments would have serious results, and it is therefore anxious to consult the people on this subject before taking steps towards unification.

LUSHAN MESSAGE QUERIED

Peking, September 4.—Wu Pei-fu's reported calling of a People's and Military Conference at Lushan, near Kiukiang, is still officially unknown to the Central Government, which has sent a telegram to Super-Tuchun Tsao Kun at Paotingfu, instructing him to investigate the matter and report. To this message General Tsao has replied that he, too, knows nothing of the matter and that he is looking into it.

Unofficial reports received in Peking Government circles indicate, however, that General Wu has known for some time of the contents of the telegram recently published and that he originally expressed his intention of circulating the Lushan Conference message as soon as Yochow was captured.

Acting on this alleged statement of General Wu, General Chang Shao-tseng, Commander of the Third Division and one of Wu's supporters and advisors, is stated to have circulated the message on his own authority and without consulting General Wu. This action on the part of General Chang is said to have annoyed Wu Pei-fu, who is reported to have told Chang that the circulation of the Lushan message was, after all, premature inasmuch as conditions in Hunan were still far from settled.

It is believed in Government circles that General Wu is a sincere supporter of a People's and Military Conference and that he hopes by means of the latter to succeed in reducing China's army by 200,000 men. On the other hand it is taken for granted here that Wu's first task will be to obtain a satisfactory settlement of the Hunan-Hupeh situation; that, in other words, nothing will be done about the Lushan Conference until there is peace in the Yangtze Valley.

GET NO CONFIRMATION

There is no confirmation of the fall of Changsha before the attacks of Wu Pei-fu, and there is every indication that Wu Pei-fu and Chao Heng-ti are beginning negotiations. The Japanese gunboat stationed at Changsha has wirelessed to a sister ship at Hankow, the wire being dated September first, setting forth the conditions around Changsha, and making no comment upon any advance of the northern forces south of Yochow. It says that things are fairly quiet around Changsha, and the Hunanese troops seem to be entrenching themselves, as though they were expecting that attacks might be made.

The various public bodies in Hankow have called upon the consular bodies of that city and made the request to them that they use their influence to persuade Wu Pei-fu not to advance south of Yochow, and to open negotiations with Chao Heng-ti. These bodies have also sent representatives to the General and have put the same request to him in person. They have been unanimous in reminding him of the promises that he made previous to the fall of Yochow to the effect that after the capture of the city, he would cease his advance and open negotiations.

Further reports state that negotiations have been opened between the contending parties, Chao Heng-ti having sent a representative to Yochow to parley with the Northern general.

The arrival of Kwangtung and Kwangsi troops at Hengchow is also reported, and they are purported to be sixty battalions strong. The Kwangsi forces are under the command of Shen Sung-ying, who was among the first to surrender to Chen Shu-ming. Chiang Tso-pin has sent a representative to the leaders of these forces, with the idea of making arrangements with them for joining the Hupeh troops.

ISSUE CIRCULAR

Peking, September 4.—The disarmament commission in Kwangsi has issued a circular telegram to all the military leaders of that province. They have stated that at the suggestion of Chen Shu-ming the commission was established and they ask that the military men send in to them lists of all the soldiers under them, as well as the numbers of rifles, and other instruments of war that they have knowledge of. This they believe is the first step to be taken in the movement toward disarmament.

They have also said that this action is necessary in order to make possible the solution of all the difficult problems with which the province is faced and in order to carry out autonomy. Self-government is the movement of the times, and it is wrong and unwise to oppose it.

DOUBT IF WU DID

Peking, September 4.—Some doubts are thrown by members of the Chinese Press on whether Wu Pei-fu has actually issued the circular telegram printed a few days ago, calling a National Conference to be held in Lushan.

The Ta Lu Jih Pao believes that while the telegram as printed is probably the authentic telegram drawn up by Wu Pei-fu, the General has not yet actually issued it. The Sinchow news agency which carried the story has since denied that the call had been issued, saying that it received the document from a friend among the military officers of Wu Pei-fu; the Ta Lu Jih Pao says that on the night of the receipt of the news it communicated with the government and various high official sources and could learn nothing; it argues that not only would the government be informed, but the Ministry of War also, if any such telegram had been sent out by the General.

Better Business Hangs On Germany Paying Her Debt

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 7.—In an interview with a representative of the Echo de Paris, the Minister of Commerce, M. Diot, stated that a general recovery of business was expected before the winter. Stocks, he said, were getting depleted and orders were increasingly numerous, while exports were improving steadily.

The Government's timely measures to help shippers were already bearing fruit. The economic situation, the Minister concluded, will steadily revert to normal provided Germany meets her obligations punctually.

DISARMAMENT OF GERMANY IS NOW COMPLETED

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, September 7.—At the final sitting of the Commission entrusted with supervising the disarmament of Germany, Mr. H. A. L. Fisher, the British delegate, in the course of a report which he had been requested to make, stated that the disarmament of Germany had been concluded in a satisfactory manner.

Proceeding to give an outline of the probable program of the Washington Conference, Mr. Fisher expressed the opinion that the principal aim of this Conference would be the limitation of naval armaments, and suggested that this limitation of naval building programs would principally, if not solely, affect the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Several of the delegates took serious objection to the views thus expressed, particularly M. Viviani (France), M. Branting (Sweden), Signor Schanzer (Italy), M. Noblemaire (France), and M. Jouhaux (France). Eventually it was decided to entrust to Mr. Fisher and M. Noblemaire the revision of the original draft of Mr. Fisher's report.

The Agence Havas understands that the British representative showed a most conciliatory spirit in regard to this revision, which has actually been completed.

U. S. VICTIMS OF R38 DEPART ON BRITISH WARSHIP

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 7.—A memorial service for the victims of the R 38 disaster was conducted in Westminster Abbey today by the Dean of Westminster (the Rt. Rev. Dr. Ryle). The King and other members of the royal family were represented, and among those present were the American Ambassador (Col. Harvey), the Bishop of Connecticut, Vice-Admiral Niblack, and American and British detachments. The bodies of the American victims of the R 38 arrived at Devonport today and were placed on board the cruiser Dauntless, which sailed for New York. The flags on the ships in harbor were half-masted and the flagship Impregnable fired minute guns.

Noted Missioners Celebrating Their Wedding Anniversary

Dr. And Mrs. Arthur H. Smith Have Served In China Half Century

Yesterday was the golden wedding anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Smith, who began their missionary labors in Shantung 49 years ago, and are today missionaries at large with headquarters in Tungchow, south of Peking.

Dr. Smith is perhaps one of the best known authorities on Chinese life and customs. He and Mrs. Smith, as evangelists of the American Board Mission, traveled extensively, and became familiar with every phase of village life in northern China.

Among Dr. Smith's books are "Chinese Characteristics," and "Village Life in China," which are read by nearly every newcomer for their humor and instruction. "China in Convulsion" was written after the Boxer outbreak, followed by "Problems and Common Sayings of the Chinese," "The Message of the World's Religions—Confucianism," "The Uplift of China," and "America and China."

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 5.—It is reported that the Chinese Government intends to place the astronomical instruments restored by Germony on exhibition for ten days, under the control of the Ministry of Education. The greater part of this historical collection has reached Peking and the remainder is on the way back.

BABY ROBBERS CAUGHT

Two Chinese, Tseu Yan-kwang, aged 18 and Tsang Ah-nyi, aged 16, were sentenced to nine months, and a third, Sung Siauling was given two months yesterday in the International Mixed Court on ten counts on having stolen gold lockets from children and babies in the North Honan and North Fokien road districts. Every count had a cause identical.

MONGOLS INVITED REDS TO EXPEL UNGERN'S FORCES

(Reuter's Service)

Peking, September 5.—The mystery which has attached in Peking to recent events at Urga has been dispelled to some extent by reports brought to Peking by a foreigner who arrived here on Friday. The foreigner in question went to Urga after the Reds had driven out General Ungern, and according to the information he received in Urga, the autocratic sway of General Ungern had become so obnoxious to the Mongols that they invited the Reds to come and drive him out. The Red force numbered three thousand.

General Ungern, finding that he could gain no Mongol support, seems to have evacuated Urga on the approach of the Reds, who thereupon made Urga their headquarters. They did not interfere at all with the Mongol Administration, which was able to function independently after the retirement of the Russian reactionaries, but they were exceedingly active outside the city in making expeditions into the interior in search of Ungern and his followers.

The Mongols appeared delighted with the change and very good relations existed between them and the Reds. Peace and order prevailed, and trade was resumed as quickly as possible. The Chinese residents were in a much better position, but they complained that every Chinese household had to provide quarters and rations for as many Red troops as the Red leaders judged it was capable of housing and feeding. The Reds showed no inclination to leave Outer Mongolia and the Mongols seemed quite satisfied for them to remain.

Mr. Sokobin, American Consul, had arrived in Urga and had leased a house. There was no difficulty in entering Urga, but in leaving it passports were examined. General Ungern had not been captured when the party left Urga.

Austria Can Meet Hungary Only In Diplomacy Field

(Reuter's Service)

Vienna, September 7.—Addressing the National Assembly the Chancellor, Dr. Schroeder, said that in view of the superior strength of the Hungarian army, which had not yet been disarmed, Austria could only employ diplomatic means to support her rights in the question of Burgenland. The Conference of Ambassadors, he added, had sent Hungary a sharp note and all the great Powers of the Entente supported Austria. He appealed to the League of Nations.

The Czecho-Slovakian Legation at Vienna states that Czecho-Slovakia is ready to send troops to West Hungary should Austria and the Conference of Ambassadors desire it.

The Saving Effected Is Worth More Than the Cost of the Paint

Good paint is never an expense; it is a way of saving. You paint to save something else, something more than painting costs; some thing that will cost far more to replace.

A house that needs painting is more than shabby; it is steadily depreciating in value. You might stand the looks but you can not stand the loss.

Economical painting, the kind of painting that saves, requires the use of the very best of materials. Use suggested an Englishman as Customs Commissioner at Tsingtao. To this Japan objected.

China's Case At The Conference

China then proposed a Japanese as Commissioner with an Englishman as Deputy Commissioner. This also was objected to by Japan.

Other suggestions were made by China, all of which were unacceptable to the Japanese Government, which finally made it plain that it would not be satisfied unless it was given the right to appoint the Commissioner and his staff, who should be Japanese.

This was unfair to the other members of the Maritime Customs Service as regards their rights of promotion on the grounds of seniority of service, and also highly objectionable to China, and, it may be observed, to the other Powers, since confidence was not felt that the customs regulations would be rigorously and impartially applied to Japanese merchants.

China then finally suggested that a Japanese be appointed as Commissioner of Customs at Tsingtao and that eight members of the Japanese Customs Department be appointed in the Chinese Customs in the lowest grade but even this offer was refused and Japanese officials continued to administer the customs of Kiaochow until the agreement of August 6, 1915, by which the Japanese were substituted for the Germans in the rights under the old Tsingtao Customs Agreement.

One result has been the smuggling or introduction into China from Japan in the form of military supplies, of through the parcel post of enormous quantities of morphine in violation of the laws of China and of international covenants to which Japan is herself a party (2).

Japan's action, as outlined so completely by Mr. Willoughby, is regarded even to today as a direct slap in the face of the Customs service so long controlled by Britain.

Suspicion and mistrust, be it in Great Britain or in any other nation, tends to watchfulness, which in these days of efficient man-killing may be translated into machine guns, tanks, flame throwers, airplanes, poison gas and battleships.

Not only Britain is watching. Smaller nations have put a finger in the pie. The Belgian Lunghai Railway is being built from Suchowfu to the new port of Haichow by Dutch engineers and has already been completed to Limpu. Japanese officialdom in Tsingtao told me that Haichow would be a harbor in ten years after ten millions of dollars had been expended. The Belgian financiers and Dutch engineers have estimated the cost as $4,000,000 and forecast the opening of the port in 1925 at the latest.

There is gossip in Tsingtao and Peking of a new German port on the Shantung Coast with a railway connecting it to Weihsien and running from Weihsien to Ichowfu, this railroad to be built by purely Chinese capital, possibly with the money realised from the sale of property in the little city in the North which is six hours nearer the sea than Tsingtao. Germany has certainly lost any ambition to bring back her Far East trade to Tsingtao and there is little evidence of German activity in Shantung. A few Germans are back in the mines in which Chinese capital is interested. The China Siemssen Company opened an office in Tsinanfu last month.

Thus we have Britain watching closely, with Belgium and Holland vitally interested in Shantung's future and Germany stretching a longing eye to the return of at least a portion of her trade in Northeast China.

America's position is unalterable. She stands for the open door and the door is not open.

So that Shantung is a case for China, first; for Britain and America, second. It is also a case for Japan, since without Tokio's co-operation, the conference will not be able to settle this problem peaceably, and powers with "special interests" will continue to be opposed by powers who think that they, too, are entitled to similar privileges, and the history-old race for naval and military supremacy will be resumed.

(1) "Foreign Rights and Interests in China", by Westel W. Willoughby. The John Hopkins Press, 1920.

(2) The present officials in Tsingtao have waged an effective war on the importation and smuggling of morphine and opium into the port, particularly in the last two years, according to missionaries residing in Tsingtao and Shantung. For this Dr. M. Akiyama, the Civil Governor, General Yui, the Military Governor, and Mr. H. Otaki, the acting Commissioner of Customs, have been justly praised.

Labor Takes Hand In Plans For Peace

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 7.—The Trade Union Congress, now sitting at Cardiff, has passed a resolution, demanding the reorganisation of the League of Nations, so as to provide the fullest opportunity for the adequate democratic representation of all nations, in order to prevent the catastrophe of another war.

The resolution further declared that peace could only be secured by the creation of an international body possessing the confidence of the people of each country, and that this could only be obtained by the adequate direct representation of labor on the Council of the League of Nations.

Mr. J. R. Clynes, M. P., in moving the resolution, criticised the Government for failing to send anyone who could claim to represent Labor to the present meeting of the League at Geneva.

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 8.—The Times understands that the work of drawing up the agenda of the Washington Conference has advanced so far as to permit of informal conversations regarding the exact definition and limitation of the subjects to be discussed. Consequently preliminary conversations will be held in London forthwith.

WANT HARA TO GO

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Sept. 7.—Despite the report that the Diplomatic Advisory Board—which is believed to be the power behind the curtain that guides the Government in regard to international affairs—has recommended that the Premier, Mr. Hara, should be the principal delegate to attend the Washington Conference, he still hesitates to accept the undertaking.

In the work of government the Elder Statesmen are still regarded as the real power which must be consulted in all important questions, especially those relating to foreign affairs, and this in spite of the fact that their constitution is non-existent and that they are not recognised.

If, therefore, Mr. Hara should decide to go to Washington, he will not have a completely free hand, as the European Premiers will in carrying on the work of the Conference, but will be expected to conform to government usages and to consult the Elder States men before making a final decision on the most important questions. It is to this fact that his hesitation may be considered to be due, apart from personal considerations in regard to internal politics.

Today's vernacular papers claiming to have authentic information regarding the result of the recent Cabinet meeting state that the choice for chief delegate lies between Count Uchida (Minister of Foreign Affairs) and Admiral Kato (Minister of the Navy) Other members of the delegation will probably include the three Ambassadors, Baron Hayashi, Viscount Ishii and Baron Shidehara and Mr. Inouye, Governor of the Bank of Japan, but it is believed that the announcement as to the final choice of personnel will be withheld until the representation of the other Powers is announced.

LI YUAN-HUNG DECLINES

Peking, Sept. 5.—General Li Yuan-hung has declined the invitation to act as President of the "Association to support the cause of China at the Pacific Conference." Mr. Chou Shu-mu has now been asked to accept the post.

TOKUGAWA GIVEN POST ELSEWHERE

Peking, Sept. 3.—Mr. Iyemasa Tokugawa, Secretary of the Japanese Legation, has been detached from his post and ordered to proceed to Tokio as soon as Mr. Ito, who has been assigned to relieve him, arrives in Peking. Mr. Ito is expected here within a few days, and Mr. Tokugawa will probably set out for Japan towards the middle of September.

Mr. Tokugawa has been attached to the Japanese Legation since January 7, 1918, and in his three and one half years stay in Peking has made many friends among his own countrymen, as well as in foreign and Chinese circles. Among his duties at the Legation has been that of receiving the newspaper correspondents, and the thoroughness, patience and unfailing courtesy that he showed in dealing with this work have made him exceedingly popular with the representatives of the press. His coming departure is regarded as a great loss to the Japanese Legation and the community at large.

It is not yet known to what post Mr. Tokugawa will be assigned after his return to Tokio, but in many quarters it is believed that he will be attached to the Japanese Delegation to the Washington Conference as an expert on Chinese affairs. Credence is given to this belief in view of Mr. Tokugawa's long experience in China and the insight that he gained of Chinese affairs previous to 1918 during his term of service in the Chinese Affairs Department of the Japanese Foreign Office.

GERMANS FORSAKE THEIR CHURCHES

Berlin Newspaper Attempts To Explain Increase Of Dissidents

Berlin, July 30.—"Gott mit uns" is no longer the slogan in republican Germany. Is the feeling that God abandoned Germany responsible for an increasing tendency for Germany to abandon God?

The Berliner Tageblatt attempts to analyse the reasons why Protestants, Catholics and Jews are leaving their churches in increasing numbers.

Godlessness is developing in the cities, whereas the country districts have lost but few members of the church, finds the Tageblatt. In one year the Protestant churches in Berlin have lost more than 80,000 members, the total loss of the Protestant churches for all Germany being about 150,000. The total number of members of the Catholic church in Berlin has receded 7,000 during the past year. The Catholics are in the minority in Northern Germany.

The number of Jews withdrawing from the synagogue is double the number of resignations before the war, the Tageblatt declares.

"The most important reason for the increasing army of dissidents is the increasing church taxes. But also the fact that the broad masses view the Protestant church as the instrument of militaristic Germany and therefore fight plays a large role. The experiences of the war have also left their mark"

"Gott mit uns," but not with increased church taxes summarises the Tageblatt's investigations.

TIENTSIN-PUKOW RAILWAY SERVICE NOW RESTORED

Break Caused By Flood North Of Nanking Repaired—Trains Running

Officials of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway announced yesterday that the break in the Tientsin-Pukow link of the rail line from Shanghai to Peking in the flooded area of northern Anhwei has been wholly repaired and that through service without necessity of change of cars has now been re-established.

For several days while the work of repair was going forward passengers were obliged to transfer from one train to another at the point of the worst break of the embankment where it was necessary to walk about a quarter of a mile while baggage was transported by coolies. This break has now been filled in. After service had been restored across the flooded district a few delays were occasioned when trains from Tientsin failed to make connection at Pukow and Nanking, but it is thought now that no further interruption will occur.

The flood waters, having no outlet, are reported to be receding but slowly and the trains from Nanking north over the Tientsin-Pukow line traverse an inland sea in which in places the railway embankment is virtually the only sight of land.

Is Your Baby Gaining in Weight?

One of the surest signs that a baby is making good progress is steady increase in weight. After the first week there should be regular and rapid growth if the baby is being properly nourished.

The most common cause of failure to gain weight is malnutrition, the food is either deficient in quality or quantity, or the digestive organs are not doing their work properly. When the stomach or bowels are at fault all that is necessary, usually, to set matters right is the administration of Baby's Own Tablets, the pleasant-tasting Canadian remedy for little ones of all ages. No fear need be entertained as to the wisdom of giving these Tablets, because they are guaranteed under a Government Analyst's certificate, to contain not a single particle of opiate, narcotic, or other injurious drug, and to be equally helpful and harmless to the youngest infant as to the child of 8 years old or more.

Baby's Own Tablets are just the right remedy for infantile constipation, colic, indigestion, diarrhoea, simple fever, teething troubles and worms. They bring natural, restful health-promoting sleep, restore appetite and make the baby thrive. Of chemists or post free, 60 cents the vial, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

U. S. MUST HELP EUROPE, VIEW OF BANKER BARUCH

Moral Leadership In Readjustment Our True Role, He Declares

EXCHANGE VITAL ISSUE

Only Way To Strike Balance Is For Everybody To Work

New York, July 31.—The French liner France arrived late yesterday burning German coal supplied at Havre, the officers said. She brought 374 first, 310 second and 234 third-class passengers, but few of them came from countries that had exceeded their July immigration quota, according to the immigration officials.

Among the prominent Americans in the first cabin was Bernard M. Baruch, the banker, who went abroad on June 14 for a brief visit to France, Germany and England. He said that Germany would have to pay her reparations in full to France, and that if she did not he believed that France would compel her to do so.

"In my opinion," he continued, "there will be no return to what we call prosperity until we have peace, and we have not got it now. That will not be until the German reparations question is settled; until France gets a security that she will receive what she is entitled to. No one can understand the situation who does not know that no Frenchman would dare to consummate a treaty that would lead France into a repetition of 1870 and the World War. France must be secured for that which belongs to her."

Mr. Baruch added that he had his own theory regarding the recent big drop in the exchange rate which he would develop later after he had time to go into the question. He said that he had left this country an all round optimist regarding the outlook for the world's commerce, and returned an optimist for the development of the United States and its possibilities as a moral leader rather than a money lender in rebuilding the countries in Europe which had been devastated and demoralised by the war.

"There can be no stabilisation of exchange," Mr. Baruch said, "no matter on what basis, until the world gets back to work and produces things to be exchanged, one country with another. They are getting back to work, but slowly. In Germany it seemed to me that they were not working any harder than elsewhere."

He said that the Silesian question was a serious one, but he was not in a position to criticise Germany's attitude in the dispute. In France he had interviews with former Premier Clemenceau and M. Briand and in England he talked with General Smuts, Lloyd George and Premier Hughes of Australia. In his opinion, America no more can stand alone than Europe can do without her aid.

Other passengers on the France were Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, who has been away three years, with the exception of a short visit to New York last season; Prince V. Engalitcheff, who is not related, he said, to the former Russian Vice Consul in Chicago, and Dr. Edmund L. Gros, head of the American Hospital in Paris, who has not been here for eleven years. He said that the buildings which housed the wounded after the battle of the Marne were now used to accommodate 400 school children.

A new and larger hospital soon will be under construction in Neuilly. Miss Louise Alexander of New York said that the skirts in Paris were worn longer and the hats, made of panne velvet, were to be larger than they had ever been before. The American women passengers seemed to be agreed upon the high cost of living and the inflated prices charged by the Paris storekeepers for their goods.

Captain M. Roch, the commander of the France, said that the weather had been very hot with a terrific electric storm when lighting illuminated the ocean on all sides to the horizon. There has been no rain in Normandy for four months and the farmers have to carry water for miles to irrigate their ground.

Duties On Chinese Tea Remitted For Two Years

Announcement Of Interest To Exporters Made By Deputy Commissioner Of Customs

Announcement has been issued by Mr. A. Braud, Deputy Commissioner of Customs, that under instructions received from the Inspector General of Customs duty on Chinese teas of all varieties shipped abroad will be remitted for a period of two years.

The following rules are to govern tea exports and are effective as from August 15:

(1) The period of exemption of all kinds of Chinese tea exported abroad from Maritime Customs duties and half exemption from inland duties is extended for a further period of one year from the 10th October, 1921. Further extension for a period of one year will be applied for in May or June next year.

(2) During the above period of exemption no Maritime or Native Customs duties or inland taxes shall be levied on 1918 and 1919 teas of all kinds (originally intended for export abroad) in stock at Shanghai, Hankow, etc., whether exported abroad, or sent coastwise or inland. When such tea is reported for sale in the interior covering huchao shall be issued by the Superintendent of Customs at Shanghai, Hankow, etc., to facilitate its examination and release en route.

(3) All bonds (or deposits) for 1918 and 1919 teas of all kinds (originally intended for export abroad), now held by the various Maritime and Native Customs are to be cancelled (or returned) but as regards teas of 1920 or later years with the exception laid down in Rule 4, bonds or deposits now held remain in force and continue to be required in future. (N.B.) The term "1918 and 1919 teas" is to be interpreted to mean "teas passed through the Maritime Customs before 1st January, 1920 (i.e. including pre-1918 teas) still in stock and under Customs control."

(4) Black tea and brick and tablet tea of 1920 and later years (i.e. up to 9th October, 1922) whether originally covered by bond or not are to be free also from domestic export and coast trade duties when exported coastwise before 10th October, 1922. They will before that date only be liable to half Native Customs duties as in the case of teas exported abroad. No bond or Native Customs half duty deposit is necessary for these teas and any bonds or Native Customs half duty deposits now held should be cancelled or refunded. If sent inland from another port they will be liable to the usual inland charges.

(5) All bonds, re-exportation passes, and repack permits, issued before 10th October, 1922, which are not cancelled under the above rules hold good to 9th October, 1923. All bonds, etc., issued on or after 10th October, 1922 to hold good for one year only.

(6) Teas which are not exported abroad within the period of exemption will not, even though covered by bonds, etc., be entitled to exemption but only to re-export privileges up to the date on which the bonds expire.

Merchants are requested to apply for the cancellation or bonds or return of deposits as laid down in Rules 3 and 4 so that, in the case of pre-1920 teas, the consignments can be identified and Special Exemption Certificates or Superintendent's huchao issued if moved coastwise or inland before 10th October, 1922.

BANDIT STILL IS AT LARGE; WIFE LAMENTS HIS ACT

(Special Cable to THE CHINA PRESS)

Seattle, Wn. (via Manila), Sept. 8.—Roy Gardner, the California mail bandit who escaped from the McNeil Island prison yesterday in a spectacular dash in which one of his companions was recaptured and another wounded by guards rifle shots, is still at liberty. Launches are patrolling the shore. It is believed that Gardner is hiding, wounded, on a bay island.

It was learned today that while Gardner was making his escape, Mr. H. Votaw, brother-in-law of President Harding who is superintendent of federal prisons was conferring in the warden's office of McNeil Island prison.

Gardner's wife, Dolly, when notified in San Francisco today of the escape, said, "I am terribly sorry my husband escaped. His action was quite inconsiderate. It makes my burden so much the harder to bear. I had intended going north Sunday so as to be as close to him as possible."

HOTEL DE FRANCE BUILDER CALLED TO FACE COURT

Faulty Construction Alleged To Have Been Cause Of Walls Falling

Pan Yung Kee, contractor engaged in remodeling the former Hotel de France which collapsed Tuesday night causing serious injury to two workmen, has been summoned to appear in the French Mixed Court this morning at 9:30 to answer the charge of faulty construction operations.

The old hotel was being reconstructed as a Silk and Cocoon Exchange. The tearing down process and rebuilding went on at the same time. Until yesterday it was thought that bodies of missing workmen might have been covered by the debris. The head carpenter and head mason have now accounted for all their men.

The French Municipal Council has stopped building operations on the wrecked structure pending the court investigation. Before construction can be resumed the walls will have to be shored and braced, as removal of the debris would probably cause the remaining walls to tumble.

Islington Dole Is Held Illegal For Family Of Eight

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 7.—The Ministry of Health has refused to sanction the Islington Board of Guardian's unemployment dole of £3 13s. 6d. a week for a man, his wife and six children. This ruling, that the Islington scale is illegal, is bound to have an important effect on the agitation which is spreading through the country owing to the discontent of those without work at the relief they receive as compared with the Islington terms.

61 Die For Plot And People Now Fear Red Terror

(Reuter's Service)

Stockholm, Sept. 7.—The Dagens Nyheter learns that the populations of Petrograd, Kieff and Odessa are panic-stricken, owing to a recrudescence of "Red terror." Wholesale arrests are reported to have been made in connection with the discovery of an anti-Soviet plot, headed by Professor Tagantsev, who is said to have been shot, along with sixty more. The conspirators are reported to have included Prince Tumanof and many Soviet officials.

Hot Weather Scalp Irritation

THE excessive perspiration set up in the scalp during the hot weather is A REAL DANGER TO THE HEALTH OF THE HAIR AND HAIR ROOTS. Excessive perspiration causes irritation of the scalp. As a counter-irritation scratching is unconsciously resorted to. The finger nails injure the delicate surface structure of the scalp, and permit the ever-present germs to invade the cells which feed the hair roots. These germs attack the hair roots, and are a direct cause of falling hair and dandruff so noticeable in the hot weather.

An application of 'GERMOL' once or twice a week will prevent irritation of the scalp, and will kill invading germs. 'GERMOL' imparts a delightfully cooling and pleasing sensation to the scalp, and is a safeguard against diseases which attack the scalp and hair roots specially at this season of the year.

One bottle is sufficient for treatment throughout the summer. Buy a bottle today.

TENNIS FINALS ON TODAY FOR CITY LEAGUE TOURNEY; PORTUGUESE THE FAVORITE

Recreation Club Will Make A Brave Fight For The Final Honors

Final matches in the City League Tennis Tournament of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association will be played this afternoon on the courts of the Shanghai Recreation Club, the Shanghai Cricket Club and the Cercle Sportif Francais. Play will commence on the Recs courts at 4:30, and as far as possible on the other grounds at the same time.

The schedule provides the following finals matches:

Recreation Club vs. Portuguese Sporting Association.

Shanghai Cricket Club vs. Columbia Country Club.

Cercle Sportif vs. Japanese Club.

The match providing chief interest will be that between the Recs and the Portuguese club. These two clubs are fighting hard for first honors in the final standings. The Portuguese club has a three point lead to date. The Recs may tie them for first position by winning four and losing one, or may win out as the champion club by taking all five matches today.

The two clubs will play the following pairs:

Recs	Portuguese
Wade	A. R. Leitao
Ollerdessen	Carnavarro
W. Manley	E. Leitao
G. Manley	A. Leitao
Hawes	Roberts
Wilson	Oliviera
Quayle	Silva
White	Passos
Brandt	Gomes
Main	Ribeiro

Reserve: Willis.

The Portuguese in the five series of matches already played have won every day's play. The Recs lost only in their opening round by 3 matches to 2 against the Columbia Country Club. The Portuguese total of matches show 22 won to 3 lost. The Recs have won 19 and lost 6.

By special arrangement it was agreed last evening between the secretaries of the Recs club and the Portuguese Association to start this evening at 4:30 p.m. so that all five matches may be played in a good light. Shanghai employers, it is hoped, will permit employes entered in today's tennis finals freedom from office duties in time to begin play at 4:30.

The C.C.C. and the C.S.F. will contend this evening in the final matches to decide third position in the standings. The two clubs are tied at 11 points each for that place now. Their performances today against the S.C.C. and the Japanese will determine their final position. Whichever wins the greater number of matches will finish third.

Wilhoit Wants His Men Out Today For Big Practice

Capt. Cy Wilhoit has issued a call for all playing members of the Shanghai Baseball club to turn out this evening at 5 p.m. for practice, in preparation for the game Sunday with the Shanghai cricketers.

Wilhoit announced yesterday that Dennison and Roeser would be loaned to the cricketers as a battery for Sunday's game, while Terry and Hoag will form the mainstay's for the big baseball team. Terry and Dennison are both at their best now, and Roeser and Hoag are each in perfect backstopping shape, so battery honors will be even in Sunday's game.

Ballplayers don't fail to show up tonight. Cy. wills it.

JOCKEY H. F. HU LOSES LEG AFTER AUTO RACE SPILL

Injury Sustained At Barr's Circus Races Results In Loss Of Member

Mr. H. F. Hu, the prominent owner and rider of the International Recreation Club, who was a victim in the motorcycle accident that occurred at the Kiangwan race track when the exhibition was given there by Barr's Flying Circus on August 27, has suffered the loss of his left leg as an outcome of the injuries he received. Since the day of the accident he has been under treatment at the Paulun Hospital. He suffered a compound fracture of the leg and it was found necessary on Wednesday to amputate the member by reason of complications that developed.

When the accident occurred Mr. Hu had started across the grass course just as Mr. D. M. Whiteman while making a test run with a Henderson motorcycle swept around the turn at a rate of over 50 miles an hour. A tire of the speeding motorcycle blew out causing the rider to lose control and the machine crashing through the fence ran over Mr. Hu. The rider of the motorcycle was unhurt.

Tientsin, Sept. 5.—The U.S.S. Huron won from the Tientsin Civilians here today 1-0 in the second extra inning of a scheduled seven inning game. The game was one of the best played here in a long time.

Draper pitching for the ship was effective. Klapak for the Tientsin also worked well. The Huron had many chances to score but Klapak always tightened up when threatened.

At The Apollo

Among the remarkable scenes of the picture are an actual train wreck staged at an outlay of $25,000, an automobile wreck and a series of exciting race track pictures that were taken at the famous Saratoga Race Track.

No Opponents Worthy To Meet Dempsey For Title

Jack Dempsey is going to have a hard time to find an opponent in the next few months. At the best, he'll have to wait until some other heavy-weight shows enough ability to guarantee an interesting match. No such man is in sight now.

Willard?

There isn't a chance in the world that the public would take a Dempsey-Willard match seriously unless Willard goes out first and beats a couple of good men. Nobody wants to see Willard beaten in a round, as he was at Toledo. He'll have to fight his way back. Willard at his best was a formidable heavyweight, but nobody knows whether or not Willard has anything left after two years or more of laying off. In the past six years he has fought a ten-round no-decision bout with Frank Moran, and has been whipped by Dempsey. That doesn't promise anything interesting in another meeting.

HERE'S THE LIST

Brennan?

Dempsey has knocked him out twice. It's true that last time he gave Dempsey a hard fight. But if he really had Dempsey in serious trouble in the early rounds, and Dempsey revived and hammered him down, there's less chance of an even fight next time. Probably he wouldn't get to Dempsey with the first hard punch again, and it would be what Jack calls "short and sweet."

Martin?

Fulton.

Fred is a good plasterer—but not in the ring. He could whip any man in the world if the other fellow didn't hit back. Last time Dempsey finished him in 14 3-5 seconds. Not much nourishment in that for the spectators.

Greb?

A corking good fellow at his own weight, but a little smaller than Carpentier.

Gibbons?

Very good. Has established a long record of quick knockouts. But look over the list. His victims are in the sparring-partner class compared to Dempsey. If Tom beat Carpentier or Brennan convincingly, he might be possible.

Carpentier?

CARP KNOWS DEMP BETTER

Well, Georges doesn't claim any right to another match. He is satisfied that Dempsey is beyond him. Or if he has a feeling that he could beat Dempsey in another match his sense of sportsmanship won't let him say so. He says only:

"I have no excuse to offer for being defeated. I did my best. Dempsey is a much better boxer than I thought, and he was too strong for me. I was beaten by a better man."

Carpentier is a sportsman through and through. At a dinner after the fight he stood up and proposed a toast:

"To Jack Dempsey, the best fighter I ever met, who will be champion for a long time."

Personally, after seeing Carpentier daze Dempsey in the second round at Jersey City, outreach and outbox him, and for the moment hit him almost at will, I think the Frenchman had a real chance to become champion, and would have a better chance six months or a year from now.

CARP IS SCIENTIFIC FIGHTER

Carpentier is like Benny Leonard, a thinking fighter. In another match he would know better how to fight Dempsey. He lives simply, takes excellent care of himself and will be as fit in another year as he is today.

What he lacked in the Dempsey fight was knowledge of the American style of fighting at close quarters, as developed by Dempsey and a few others since. Carpentier made a study of American methods as introduced in France by Willie Lewis, Harry Lewis, Papke, Klaus and Jeanette years ago.

If he comes back here in a few months and meets Gibbons, Greb and one or two others he'll know how to fight Dempsey at his own style, or how to offset it by keeping clear and using his terrific long-range punching to the best advantage.

Carpentier would have the advantage then of a lot of new fighting experience, and Dempsey will probably be out of the ring for some time for lack of opponents. He would lack recent ring experience, and he is not the type of fighter that improves through resting.

CHAMPION HAS LOST SPEED

The two years of easy living after beating Willard took away some of Dempsey's speed. He seems to have got away from the weaving, elusive style of boxing that made him champion. He will go on enjoying an easy life, having plenty of money, and it's a safe guess he won't be any faster in another year than he is now.

At that it will be a long time before Dempsey loses the iron strength and endurance that enabled him to shake off the effect of Carpentier's hardest punches and come back strong in a few seconds.

As for a bout between Dempsey and Wills, that would make a good match, but no promoter is likely to try to put it on. Dempsey is a gamer and a cleaner fighter than Wills, and the probability is that he'd win in a few rounds, but no one wants to see any repetition of the race troubles that followed the affair at Reno. No State where boxing is going on well would tolerate that match. To try to force it might produce a great injury to the sport.

There are dull times ahead for Dempsey; but there seems to be a good prospect for some first-class boxing among the light heavy-weights.

Rookie Pitcher Helping Pirates To Pennant Goal

Charles ("Whitey") Glazner, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is considered the pitching "find" of the season. He joined the Pirates this year, his first in the major leagues, and has taken part in twelve games, winning eight and losing one. Glazner, a veteran of the A.E.F., played with Birmingham last season. It is possible that this rookie twirler will star in a world series in his first season in the big leagues.

ST. LEGER WON BY POLEMARCH; IS RANK OUTSIDER

Favorite Finishes Fourth In England's Turf Classic

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 7.—The race for the St. Leger was run at Doncaster today in glorious weather, and in the presence of an enormous crowd. The result was as follows:

Polemarch (Childs)	1
Franklin (Gardner)	2
Westward Ho (Carslake)	3

Also ran: Craig an Eran (Frank Bullock), Roman Fiddle (Hulme), Milesius (Beary), Thunderer (Donoghue), Foundation (Fox), and Tremola (Beasley).

Starting prices: 50 to 1 Polemarch, 100 to 6 Franklin, 8 to 1 Westward Ho. Place betting: 6 to 1 Polemarch, 7 to 4 Franklin, 5 to 4 on Westward Ho.

Franklin led for a quarter of a mile, when Tremola went to the front and led the field by six lengths at the mile. Entering the straight Franklin, Westward Ho and Craig an Eran were racing abreast, but a furlong from home Polemarch took the lead and won easily by one and a half lengths. Three lengths separated second and third. Craig an Eran, the favorite, which started at 4 to 1 on, finished fourth.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB GALA STARTS TONIGHT; EXPECT SIEMSSEN TO WIN TITLES

Fetherstonhaugh, Ordered To Japan By Physician, Will Not Swim; Eleven Events, With Two Championship Races, Carded For Tonight

Two Shanghai championships will be decided tonight at the Municipal Bath when the first evening's events of the annual Shanghai International Swimming Club gala will be held. The 100-yard dash and the polo ball throwing contest are the title events carded and although the first will not see Fetherstonhaugh in action, the second will see some interesting competition. None other events are on the program.

Fetherstonhaugh has been ordered to Japan by his physician, and Siemssen, the big local bet against Hongkong in the Interport races, will swim against Mears, who has negotiated the distance in 62 seconds.

The polo ball throwing contest, the record for which is now held by MacCabe, promises a struggle. Both Goldman and Bertnet have been credited recently with mighty heaves in the 70 foot class, and MacCabe must go some to retain his title this year against such competition.

The program for tonight and tomorrow follows:

FRIDAY

1 length Griffins' Handicap.
100 yards Club Championship.
Club Diving Championship, first stage.
100 yards breast stroke championship of Shanghai.
Tub race (heats).
1 length blindfold race.
1 length handicap (heats).
440 yards championship of Shanghai.
2 lengths Ladies Sweepstake handicap.

Babe Ruth Gets His 52nd Homer

In the first game of the New York Yank's last series with Boston on Wednesday, Babe Ruth, the premier home-run hitter of all time rapped out his fifty-second homer of the season, thus putting his record for 1921 just six circuit hits ahead of his pace for last year.

Up until September 9 in 1920 Ruth had knocked out but 46 homers. He had registered his 52nd on September 27. He is now six homers, or twenty days ahead of his 1920 record. There are yet 15 playing days left for Ruth to get two more homers to tie his record of last year, or three more homers to set a record as yet unparalleled in baseball.

Dr. Paul Monroe Urges China's Industrial Leaders To Aid Cause Of Education

American Educator Is Guest Of 19 Chinese Organisations At Tiffin Here; Goes To Nanking On Tour Of Investigation

Nineteen local Chinese organisations united to do honor to Dr. Paul Monroe and his daughter at a reception in the form of a Chinese tiffin at the Yih Ping Shan Hotel at noon yesterday, the hosts being Kiangsu Educational Association, Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce, Chinese National Federation of Education, Educational Association of Shanghai District, National Committee of Y.M.C.A., National Association of Vocational Education of China, World's Chinese Students' Federation, Shanghai Chinese Y.M.C.A., Boy Scouts' Association of Kiangsu Province, Chamber of Commerce of Shanghai District, Shanghai Chinese Y.W.C.A., Nanyang College (Chiao Tung University), National Southeastern University, Shanghai College of Commerce, Fuhtan College, Dung Chi Medical and Engineering College, Nanking Teachers' College, Second Provincial Normal School, and Chinan Institute, Dr. P. W. Kuo, President of the Southeastern University, presided.

By way of introduction Dr. Kuo referred to China's good fortune in having been visited by Dr. John Dewey and Professor Bertrand Russell, who have made their mark in the educational world of China by stirring up the current of new thought in this country. After mentioning the important educational work the distinguished guest had done in America, the authoritative publications on education from his pen under the names of "Encyclopaedia of Education," and "History of Education" and his knowledge of Dr. Monroe's sympathetic attitude towards Chinese students in America in his capacity of Adviser to Foreign Students, and his contribution to the labor of the Commission appointed by the United States Government to improve the educational system in the Philippine Islands, Dr. Kuo said that he was glad to find that the efforts of several Chinese educationists, Fan Yuan-lien, former Minister of Education, Chang Po-ling, President of the Nankai College, and others in persuading Dr. Monroe to visit China again—his first visit was eight years ago—have been successful.

WILL MAKE STUDY

Dr. Kuo said that Mr. Monroe will spend four months in China studying from first hand sources the educational system and delivering lectures during his tour of investigation.

"Dr Monroe is not bringing a system of American education for us to adopt," continued Dr. Kuo, "because he well knows that the history, characteristics, political and social needs of the Chinese people demand that they have a distinctive educational system of their own. But after he has made the necessary investigations, he will offer us practical suggestions in the line of general principles for improving educational work in China and we can count on his being frank with us in telling us our weak points so that we may strive to overcome them."

Dr. Kuo then called attention to another important aspect of Dr. Monroe's visit, namely the work that he will do on his return to America in interpreting the true conditions in China to the American people, thus bringing the two peoples more closely together.

Dr. Huang Yen-pei, Vice-President of the Kiangsu Educational Association, told the audience the main topics discussed with Dr. Monroe at the informal chats during the last few days, in which his opinion has been sought in connection with such problems as

(a) To what extent should educational emancipation be carried out in China so that a national system may be evolved while giving a free hand to educational enterprises in the provinces and districts?

(b) How can an ideal combination be effected between the educational elements which study human sociology and those that insist on the immediate solution of the problem of providing the masses with means of livelihood?

(c) How can intellectual independence be brought to that stage of co-operation which makes personal interest subservient to common interests?

DR. CHIANG SPEAKS

Dr. Chiang Mon-ling, bearer of the message of welcome from eight colleges in Peking, expressed the hope that Paul Monroe would stay in China for a long time. The news that Dr. Monroe will visit Peking has thrown open the doors of several institutions which had been closed because the teachers had been compelled to stop work through the non-payment of their salaries. Dr. Chiang is taking the place of Dr. Tsai Yuan-pei as the Chancellor of the Peking Government University.

Dr. Monroe expressed his satisfaction at being entertained by business and industrial bodies as well as the educational organisations, accepting it as proof of the great interest that business men and industrialists are taking in education. Dr. Monroe referred to the problem of financing education in America, which, he said, is a result problem of the war increasing the cost of education.

"Both in China and America," said Dr. Monroe, "the tide of an industrial revolution has set in, affecting political and social conditions and the moral lives of the people. This revolution brings with it new problems which can only be solved by education. The civilised world has made progress along three lines: Increase of man's power over the forces of nature, co-operation in groups and development of the individual—personality."

Dr. Monroe proceeded to show that education is the one thing necessary if China is to achieve this three-fold progress.

SPECIALISATION TREND

Dr. Monroe told how the developments following man's successful efforts to harness the forces of nature by the introduction into the industrial and commercial realms the use of steam and gas, have compelled modern schools to teach the fundamentals of life, to teach the students to know the material basis of life, to interpret it and to use it rightly against the old system of confining education to literary and abstract subjects for the benefit of the privileged classes.

"The trend of modern education is towards specialisation which is the raison d'etre of vocational training for the sake of handling well the immense resources locked in the forces of nature," Dr. Monroe said.

Dr. Monroe cited the case of New York City where 112 years ago when industrial education was in its infancy, it was an exceedingly difficult task to raise $5,000 for education whereas last year the educational appropriation for the city was no less than $98,000,000, thanks to the onward march of industry and commerce.

With regard to group action on a provincial and national scale, Dr. Monroe emphasised the importance of exercising those virtues which contribute to individual success. He saw a healthy sign of the advent of educational progress in China when men in the front rank of industry and commerce come forward to help in the financing of educational enterprises, paying a tribute to Mr. C. C. Nieh and Mr. H. Y. Moh. "China's future is assured if her business men will help in the solution of her educational problems," Dr. Monroe asserted.

Among those present were Dr. P. W. Kuo and Dr. Fong F. Sec, both of whom studied under Dr. Monroe at Columbia University, Rev. J. A. Silsby, Mr. Hsu Yuan, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs; Dr. Chiang Mon-ling, Acting Chancellor of the Peking Government University; Mr. David Yui, who interpreted Dr. Monroe's into Chinese; Dr. Huang Yen-pei, Mr. C. C. Nieh, Miss Sophia Chang, Principal of the Shen Chow Girls' High School and the Girls' Normal School of Nanking; Miss Chang Huai-tzu, Principal of the Wu Pen Girls' High School; Miss Grace Yang of the Y.W.C.A. and Mrs. Fong F. Sec.

Dr. Monroe and his daughter left for Nanking last night. Representatives of educational associations will accompany Dr. Monroe on his tour and the local schools have been encouraged to send through the Kiangsu Educational Association any inquiry on educational subjects on which they desire Dr. Monroe's advice. Miss Monroe expects to remain in China for a year in teaching work at Hangchow.

Russians Wire To Hoover Offering Help In Famine

Peking, Sept. 3.—The Russian-American Relief Committee of Harbin, which was recently organised with a view to collecting food and clothing for the famine-stricken provinces of Russia and Siberia, has telegraphed to Mr. Hoover in Washington offering him its services in the shipment and distribution of American relief supplies, according to Harbin reports received here today. This message was, it is stated, despatched to Mr. Hoover through the American Legation at Peking.

In Harbin American circles it is not regarded as likely that American relief organisations will take advantage of the Harbin committee's offer to administer famine relief on a large scale, and it is expected that the Harbin committee will ultimately confine its efforts to relief work in and about Harbin and, perhaps, in the Ussuri and Maritime Provinces.

This belief is based first on the fact that the Russian American Committee is composed in the main of Russians and that, although some representative Americans are members of the committee, the Americans have no actual control of affairs. Furthermore, the Russian members of the committee consist largely of the personnel of the old school of Russian political thought, so that for them or their representatives to work in the Far Eastern Republic and Western Siberia as famine relief distributors is considered to be out of the question. Niether the Far Eastern Republic nor the Moscow Soviet Government would ever allow it.

Exact information as to famine conditions in Siberia is still unavailable, according to Harbin reports, but such investigations as have already been made indicate that the famine in western Siberia is serious in many places and that the lack of adequate transportation facilities makes these conditions even worse than they would be otherwise.

There are also considerable areas in the Far Eastern Republic where the crops have failed and the people are threatened with starvation, this being particularly the case along the Amur River, where an absolute crop failure is reported.

Ghandi Boycott To Be Effective After Six Months

(Reuter's Service)

Calcutta, Sept. 8.—In pursuance of his foreign cloth boycott, Mr. Ghandi yesterday met a number of cloth dealers. It is understood that some of them requested a delay of six months in which to dispose of their stocks of foreign cloth, after which, they said, they would not deal in such cloth.

The Marwari Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution in favor of not purchasing further supplies of foreign cloth until December 31, in order to steady the market and to help to deplete the accumulated stocks and thereby create a healthy atmosphere for future operations.

Barnes Defeats Hutchinson Five Up, Four To Play

(Reuter's Service)

New York, September 7.—Barnes, the American golf champion, beat Hutchinson, who recently won the British Championship, by five up and four to play, in a 36-hole match for a purse of $2,000.

S. V. C. Notes

There was recently a good deal of correspondence in a Shanghai paper on the subject of white dinner jackets. It may be of interest to give a brief outline of the recent evolution of the short jacket in the British Army.

There is probably no Regiment or Corps in the Army, and certainly no mounted one, that did not at one time have a short buttoned-up jacket as part of its dress. Such a jacket still remains in the case of the R. H. A. full-dress jacket. It is not so many years since the Guards and Highlanders had a short white jacket as their "drill order" dress, whilst all mounted units similarly had a "stable jacket." In the case of mounted units, the "stable jacket" and "mess jacket" for officers were identical, but were worn buttoned up and open respectively. When the howl for cutting down expenses came along in the early part of this century, this jacket disappeared and was replaced by a less gaudy one with a roll-collar for mess purposes, while the buttoned-right-up-to-the-top waistcoat gave way to the civilian and more sanitary fashion of an open one worn with black tie and white linen.

Though tailors may have introduced a certain amount of fancy into the cut of the new pattern mess jacket, the fundamental idea still remains, namely that the jacket, if it were buttoned up, would not come below the waist line. It was the disregard of this idea in the mess jackets of most of the officers of the S. V. C. that rather horrified the present Commandant on his arrival here.

The black tie and linen, though undoubtedly copied from civilian fashion, had long been worn in certain classes of uniform, e.g. until King Edward VII came to the throne, Staff Officers wore these with their frock coats in undress uniform.

If the white dinner jacket affected by civilians in the Far East is a copy of the military mess jacket, it is a poor one, but in any case the matter of copying of military dress by civilians and vice versa seems about "six of one and half a dozen of the other."

NEW DECORATION

Captain E. G. Gauntlett C. B. E. D. S. O. has recently been awarded the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, another token of appreciation of the great services rendered by this able medical officer during the war, in which he rose to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in the R. A. M. C. Our heartiest congratulations to him.

It is rather curious that the arrival of the decoration itself has almost synchronised with the discovery, on the part of a member of the Corps, that the Maltese Cross of the of the medals competed for annually in the Corps Rifle Meeting is an almost exact replica of that of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. It is scarcely likely that the imitation was intentional, but the Musketry Committee might take note, and in case of doubt remember that the Corps "Star" is an excellent device.

HOW TO MAUL A UNIT

1.—Miss as many parades as you can.

2.—Don't attend if it is at all wet.

3.—When you attend, be late.

4.—Decline all rank. It is easier to criticise than to do things.

5.—If appointed to a committee, don't attend meetings.

6.—If you do and are asked an opinion, say you have none, but later tell others what should have been done.

7.—Get sore when others do work which you won't, and howl that a "clique" is running things.

8.—Delay your dues as long as you can and never answer chits.

9.—Let your rifle clean itself.

FIELD ARTILLERY

The Left Section of the Battery paraded with six-horse teams on Sunday last. The old 15-pr was always drawn by teams of four, but the new ordnance, although a little heavier, just exceeds the limit that four ponies can comfortably draw. It is hoped that sufficient ponies will shortly be obtained to provide teams of six for all the guns.

The monthly rifle competition for August and September was held last Sunday at 100, 200 and 300 yards, under Corps Classification conditions. B.Q.M.S. Field with a score of 74 and Bdr. Watton with 64 were the winners and are handicapped accordingly. Some useful revolver practice also took place.

Next Sunday morning, instead of the usual Battery parade there will be a ride. The start will be at the Stables at 9 o'clock: Fatigue order, with helmets.

Sergt. Major. Welman returned from long leave this week and will shortly resume his duties with the unit.

Why the gunners should excell at aquatic sports is veiled in mystery. Reports of recent competitions, however, seem to show that unadulterated water, in its proper place, has a powerful attraction. At the recent swimming and diving contests quite a number of the gunners were successful, and it is rumored that they will show up strongly at the Rowing Club regatta at Henli next month. Arrangements are not yet complete for selecting the Gunners' crew for the S.V.C. fours at this regatta but it is almost definate that Gnr. Evans will stroke whilst the remainder of the crew is to be chosen from Bdr. Ford, Gnrs. Coulcher, Brown, Day, McIntyre and Henry.

New Rules Formed For Filling Wants Of Rys.

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, September 4.—In pursuance of the policy of efficiency and economy introduced into the Ministry of Communications by Mr. Yeh Kung-cho last year, Chang Chih-tan, the present Minister, has authorised the drafting and publication of a set of regulations governing the purchase of material by the Chinese Government Railways.

The Chinest railways purchase annually supplies of all kinds to the value of over $20,000,000, and there has in the past been considerable "graft" connected with the placing of orders for these supplies.

When, however, Mr. C. C. Wang became Director-General of the Railway Department under the present Cabinet he decided that extravagance and graft" should be eliminated from his department as far as possible. He accordingly drew up a memorandum for the Minister of Communications, embodying his views as to the purchase of Government Railway supplies, and this memorandum was subsequently approved by both the Minister and the Cabinet.

The regulations, which follow, are based on Mr. C. C. Wang's memorandum:

I.—Specifications, drawings and samples of materials.

1. The term "materials" as employed in these regulations is applied to all materials and articles used on the Railways and includes locomotive, passenger and freight cars, track materials, machineries and tools.

ADOPT STANDARDS

2.—In connection with every purchase of materials by the Railways, complete specifications and drawings or proper samples must be previously prepared, to be used as standards of the materials purchased.

When materials are received, their acceptance or rejection will be made, after inspection, in accordance with the requirements of the specifications, drawings or the samples.

3.—Sufficient copies of specifications and drawings must be prepared to be given to those who desire to submit tenders for supplying the materials. When samples are furnished one or several of them are to be placed at a definite place for examination only by the suppliers if no more can be provided.

4.—Chinese, English or French language may be used in the specifications and drawings. If the original is in English or French while the materials can be purchased in China, a translation in Chinese is to be attached. If the original is in Chinese while the materials have to be purchased abroad, attached translation in English or French is to be made.

II.—Invitation of Tenders:

6.—Whenever any single purchase of the same material or several similar materials is estimated to be over $5,000, Chinese Currency, an invitation of tenders is to be made. Special conditions under Railway loan agreement are to be excepted.

7.—When a material is produced solely by one manufacturer and the exclusive agency for selling the material is held by one concern, and if the material cannot be substituted for by any other material, no invitation of tender is needed. If the agency is not exclusive, an invitation must be made to the several agents to submit their tenders under conditions same as these mentioned in Article 6.

If any supplier has made a long term agreement with any Railway to furnish a certain material or number of materials even when that supplier holds no exclusive right otherwise of selling that material or those materials, no invitation of tenders is to be made. But the Railways concerned are to report such agreements to the Ministry within one month after the promulgation of these Regulations.

When the Railways desire to have these agreements renewed after their expiration they must ask for the approval of the Ministry by stating the reason for their renewal.

8.—Invitation of tenders may be either limited or unlimited.

THREE TO COMPETE

9.—A limited invitation of tenders is made when the Railways, invite by correspondence only those reputable and reliable firms or manufacturers to submit their tenders. For each invitation of this kind, three competitors at least must be selected for the purpose. Those who have never supplied materials to the Railways before and the newly established firms or manufacturers may also be invited to submit tenders when they are found by the Railways to be capable of supplying the materials needed or when they are willing to make proper deposits with the Railways to insure their good faith.

10.—Unlimited invitation of tenders shall be made by the Railways through advertisement in the well known newspapers at suitable localities and is open to all who are interested.

11.—In limiting the period for submitting tenders, sufficient time must be allowed for the firms to carefully study the specifications, drawings, or samples and to make their estimates. When the materials have to be purchased abroad, further allowance must be made for the firms to mail the specifications and drawings and to secure their quotations or any other information by cabling.

III.—Deposit:

12.—When the invitation of tenders is unlimited, those who wish to submit tenders are required to make each a deposit with the Railways in addition to the payment for the cost of specifications and drawings.

13.—The amount of the abmentioned deposit shall be fixed by the Railways according to circumstances.

TO RETURN DEPOSITS

14.—The desposits will be returned to the bidders after the selection of tender has been made except the one whose tender has been selected and whose deposit may be transferred to the deposit for the contract.

In case the supplier whose tender has been selected announces his inability to supply the materials or fails to call at the Railway offices for the signing of the contract within the stated period after the announcement of the selection of tender, his deposit made at the time of submitting the tenders is forfeited and also his right to supply the materials will be annulled.

15.—The supplier whose tender has been selected shall at the time of signing the contract, make a deposit with the Railways.

16.—The amount of this deposit for the contract shall be fixed by the Railways according to circumstances and shall be clearly stated in the specifications.

17.—The desposit for a tender or a contract shall be either in form of cash or acceptible bonds or a letter of guaranty covering the sum of cash required from any bank accepted by the Ministry of Communications.

IV.—Supervision over the invitation and examination of tenders:

18.—Whenever the estimated cost of the same material or several similar materials to be purchased exceeds $5,000, Chinese Currency, the Railways shall report to the Ministry (a) the kinds of materials to be purchased with specifications, drawings or samples accompanying the report, (b) the amount and estimated cost of each material to be purchased, and (c) the way in which tenders are going to be invited (limited or unlimited), the date fixed for opening the tenders and the amounts of deposits required for tenders and contracts. When the invitation of tenders is limited, the names of the firms or manufacturers to be invited shall also be stated. Only after due approval by the Ministry the Railways can issue invitation if tenders either by correspondence or through advertisement in newspapers.

INVITATION TO BIDDERS

19.—The letters or advertisement for inviting tenders shall contain these words with the approval of the Ministry of Communications, this invitation is made to the suppliers to submit their tenders.

20.—Irrespective of whether the invitation is limited or unlimited, all tenders submitted shall be opened on the prefixed date at the specified hour.

21.—Whenever the estimated cost of the materials exceeds $50,000 a delegate or delegates from the Ministry of Communications must be invited to be present at the time of opening the tenders.

22.—The result of the opening of tenders must be reported to the Ministry and, before the signing of the contract, the tender selected and the drafted contract shall be sent to the Ministry for approval.

23.—When several bidders and the manufacturers whom they represent are equally known and also when their terms of delivery and payment, etc. are about the same, the one whose bid is the lowest shall be selected to supply the materials.

24.—Before the opening of tenders, or after the opening but before the signing of the contract, whenever it is discovered that the bidders have raised the prices through general agreement or attempted in any other way to hold up the Government, the Railways shall report to the Ministry of Communications to have the tenders submitted by those bidders made disqualified and the materials purchased in any other way deemed advisable under the circumstances.

25.—All purchases of materials by the Railways not in accordance with articles 6, 18, 20, 21, 22 of these Regulations are hereby disapproved and shall not be recognised except in case of force majeure when special approval can be requested for.

V.—Supplementary:

26.—Amendments to these regulations shall be proposed by the Ministry of Communications and become effective after they have been passed at a Cabinet Meeting.

27.—All the above regulations shall be effective from the date of promulgation.

Rifling of Gray's Baggage Is Given More Serious Turn

Peking, Sept. 4.—Mr. A. F. Agaroff, Chairman of the Mission of the Far Eastern Republic to China has issued the following statement to the Chung Mei News Agency:

"In connection with the incident of the examination of Mr. Gray's baggage and the detention of the documents, I have to make the following statement: Mr. Gray, during his stay in Mukden since July 15, was several times received by Marshal Chang Tso-lin and was well-known to the Chinese authorities there. Before his departure for Peking, Mr. Grav requested the Chinese authorities in Mukden to grant him a "Huchow" for Peking, but the Chinese authorities assured him that there was no necessity for a Huchow as Mr. Gray was well-known to them personally and as orders had been given to the railway administration not to hinder his trip to Peking. These facts are stated in a written report to me made by Mr. Gray. Besides, the identity of Mr. Gray was verified by the secretary of the Mission of the Far Eastern Republic to China to a representative of the Waichiaopu on the evening of Mr. Gray's arrival at Peking when his baggages were detained by a squad of gendarmes.

"As regards the position of the Mission of the Far Eastern Republic to China, I have only to state that during its one year's stay in Peking, the Mission had dealings with the Waichiaopu on economic questions as well as on matters of a political and diplomatic nature. The Mission would never tolerate any treatment of the Chinese Government that accorded to a neighboring state friendly disposed toward China.

"As regards rumors of alleged conspiracy against China, I solemnly declare that the policy of the Mission of the Far Eastern Republic to China founded on pure friendship and a recognition of the mutual interests of the two neighboring states, always was and still remains one of absolute non-interference with the domestic affairs of China."

Negotiations between the Chinese Foreign Office and the Far Eastern Republic with regard to the documents seized by Government secret police from Chita Courier Paul Gray have reached a temporary deadlock, according to semi-official Chinese sources, neither side being able to recognise the stand taken by the other or budge from its position in order to effect a empromise. It is understood, however, that the Chinese authorities believe that the deadlock will be broken and a satisfactory understanding reached within the near future.

Chang Tso-lin has not been heard from concerning Chita affairs since Mr. Yourin's departure for Dairen on the 24th instant and the Foreign Office is accordingly in the dark as to the nature and results of his negotiations with the Chita delegate.

Further Details Of R38 Disaster

Peking, Sept. 3.—Further and more detailed reports regarding the wreck of the R 38 while on her trial trip over Hull on the 24th ult. show that the airship did well during the early part of her flight, which was witnessed by thousands of spectators in and about the city.

At half past five in the afternoon, however, the R 38 suddenly buckled amidships. The spectators heard a terrific explosion, followed by flames shooting a couple of hundred feet skyward. The buildings of the city trembled from the shock and most of the windows of the houses were shattered, while the panic-stricken crowd scattered in all directions to seek shelter from the wreckage and burning fragments of the airship.

What was left of the R 38 fell into the River Humber, the surface of which was at once enveloped in a dense column of smoke and flames extending over a radius of several hundred feet.

Of the R 38's crew of 49 officers and men, all told, but five were saved, according to a despatch received by Lloyd's. Every American on board 6 officers and 11 men, and 27 British officers and men, were killed. Some of the crew were seen by the crowd to attempt an escape by means of parachutes, but not one of the three parachutes that left the airship landed its passengers safely.

The American officers killed in the wreck were: Commander L. H. Maxfield, U. S. N.; Lt. Commdr. V. N. Bieg, U. S. N.; Lt. Comdr. E. W. Coil, U. S. N.; Lieutenant N. W. Hoyt, U. S. N.; Lieutenant M. N. Baterly, R. F.; Lieutenant C. G. Little, R. F.

Among the British dead are the cepting Lieutenant Warne, the Maitland and all the officers extamous naval aviator Bigger, Commander of the R 38.

WADDELL CHARGE GETS NO COMMENT

Peking, Aug. 30.—M. A. Mesnager, the French engineer on the Commission for the awarding of the Yellow River Bridge contract, and Dr. J. A. L. Waddell, the American engineer, against whom the French, Belgian and British engineers made serious charges that were published in the press August 30 by Dr. Waddell himself, were both interviewed by a representative of the Chung Mei News Agency. M. Mesnager, speaking for the engineers making the charges, stated that for the present time they had no comment to make upon the document, containing the charges, inasmuch as they were in the employ of the Chinese Government, and that the communication had been sent to the Minister of Communications. Dr. Waddell, on the same grounds, stated that he could make nothing public at present, but that he has written to the Minister of Communications, refuting the charges made against him, and requesting permission to make the denial public; he also hopes that the technical questions that lead up to the attack will also be given to the press.

M. A. Mesnager, on being interviewed in his office this afternoon, said that he had no comment to made upon the documents that were published by Dr. Waddell in the Peking Leader. At some future time, depending upon the way that the matter developed he might have something to say, but that at the present, inasmuch as the document published had been sent to the Minister of Communications, and since the engineers submitting the document were not free, but were in the employ of the Chinese Government, they could not give anything out at the present time.

The position taken by Dr. Waddell was practically the same, that because of the fact that he was in the employ of the Chinese Government he was not in a position to make any statement with regard to the charges brought against him. He gave out, however, a statement in which he said "that he has sent a letter to the Ministry of Communications replying in detail to the charges made against him, and that he has requested the Ministry to permit him to make public this denial. That in addition to this he hopes that there will be made public the technical questions leading up to the attack against him, the documents of which he made public and which was evidently designed to prevent his carrying out his professional duty."

FLOOD IN NORTH GIVES TASTE OF OLD TIME CHINA

(China Press Correspondence)

Peitaiho Beach, Chihli, Sept. 2.—Residents of north, China are having a taste of what it must have been like thirty years ago before the railways were built. Warring Tuchuns, in process of the annual mid-summer readjustment, never succeeded in severing railway communications so completely or for so long a time as have the washouts following a season of excessive rainfall.

The Tientsin-Pukow Railway, the most important artery between north China and the Yangtze Valley, has been broken for two full weeks, and the engineers can give no date for resumption of through traffic. There have been two washouts. The northern washout at the Hwai River crossing near Pengpu is repaired, but the Nanhsuchow break further south is still far from being repaired. Foreign engineers and a thousand coolies at either broken end are working night and day with the entire wreckage equipment of the railway, but they are as yet quite unaware what difficulties they may encounter in the work. They are compelled to construct a grade through the lake which still stands over the country, and they may at any time strike depth or current which will prove insurmountable. One engineer writes privately that with continued dry weather trains may get through by September 25, but that the possibility of further rains, swelling the flood, makes the setting of dates quite useless.

LAND ROUTES CUT

This break in the principal line of traffic, coming just at the time when hundreds of Summer resorters from Peitaiho, Shanhaikwan and other places are seeking conveyance back to Shanghai, has caused a most acute traffic situation. Even roundabout and alternative routes have been cut off, with the exception of the one sea-coast route from Tientsin to Shanghai, which is unavailable without three weeks advance booking.

A number of Shanghailtes stranded in north China, as well as tourists and persons traveling in various lines of business, were planning to utilise the Japanese line from Tsinan to Tsingtao, taking ship from that port, when it was reported that this railway was washed out to the extent of some thirty miles.

Several persons from Peitaiho have attempted within the past few days to travel the roundabout and expensive route via Hankow, but have been turned back on account of troop disturbances along the Peking-Hankow line.

There remains only the route through Manchuria. The shortest way here—via the Kopangtze-Newchwang branch and steamer from Newchwang—is cut off by the washout of the branch line. One may now go to Mukden (the Shanhaikwan-Mukden line has only recently been repaired) and from there on the South Manchurian Rly. to Dairen, taking a chance on getting a berth on a Japanese steamer from that port. Some homesick wives, and other harried persons, are contemplating utilising this method of going north in order to get south. If they fail to get through via Dairen they can, of course, go further around by Japan, or even San Francisco. The Trans-Siberian might be a possibility if it were operating.

WAITING LIST OF 200

The coasting ships out of Tientsin are booked up for three weeks and have a waiting list of two hundred. There is considerable feeling that companies operating these lines should place added vessels on the run, as an emergency relief. Americans are asking why one of the Shipping Board vessels, which are so hard run to find business, cannot be allocated to the Tientsin run for the time being. Although through freight must likewise go by sea, there is probably not enough freight to balance off the passenger demand and make the run really profitable for added ships.

The break communications has caused a woeful lack of knowledge in north China as to what is going on in Shanghai, and vice versa. Mail is now going regularly by boat, but for a time it was being sent all over the country in an effort to find a quick way of getting it through. The Japanese, to whom an emergency never means a reasonable cause to dispense with red tape, refused to allow the passage of Chinese mail through Tsingtao without regular diplomatic negotiation on the subject. A fine comment on Japan's claim to liberality in the matter of China's stolen port! Large batches of mail which the authorities of the Chinese Postoffice had sent to Tsingtao had to be brought back to Tientsin.

It took a week for north China to learn of Shanghai's typhoon. How long it has taken Shanghai to learn of north China's predicament is not known here, but wives at the summer resorts are still getting letters from irate husbands in Shanghai who demand that if their better halves do not intend returning upon schedule time they at least render the courtesy of notification as to their intention.

JAPAN AND CHITA NOW NEGOTIATING IN DAIREN HOTEL

Peking, September 4.—Negotiations between the Far Eastern Republic and Japan are to be conducted on a more formal and extensive basis than was originally supposed, according to information received here from Dairen.

Mr. Yourin, representing the Far Eastern Republic, has already engaged a large section of the Yamato Hotel for himself and his present staff, and this staff is to be increased by the arrival of a large delegation from Chita.

The leading figures in this supplementary delegation are Mr. Kosjevnikoff, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs; Mr. Anochin, Vice-Minister of Justice; and Mr. Petron, Minister of Public Health. Both Mr. Kosjevnikoff and Mr. Petron have had considerable experience in dealing with the Japanese, the former having recently conducted negotiations with the Japanese at Vladivostok and Harbin, while the latter about a year ago arranged with the Japanese military authorities in Trans-Baikalia for a neutral zone in that territory into which the troops of the Far Eastern Republic on the one hand and the armies of Japan and Semenoff on the other were not to penetrate.

Ministers Kosjevnikoff, Anochin and Petroff, with a large staff of secretaries and clerks, passed through Station Manchuria on the 28th ult., and reached Dairen on Sept. 1. Large-scale negotiations with the Japanese delegation headed by Mr. Matsushima will begin as soon as all credentials have been exchanged and approved.

WILL COVER ISSUES

In well informed Peking circles it is believed that these negotiations will cover all outstanding issues between Japan and the Far Eastern Government and that before the 11th of November, the date set for the opening of the Washington Conference, Mr. Matsushima and Mr. Yourin will have concluded an agreement covering Japan's evacuation of Seberia, trade relations and the exchange of representatives.

The most important point to be settled between Chita and Japan is considered to be the question of Japan's evacaution of Siberia. It has hitherto been the policy of the Chita Government to insist that Japan evacuate Siberia entirely before any negotiations between the two states are opened. Japan, on the other hand, is believed to be willing to consent to a partial evacuation of Siberia, but will not, it is thought, give up her hold on Northern Saghalien and Nikolaievsk-on-Amur.

Japanese evacuation of Vladivostok and the Ussi and Maritime Provinces is the main desire of the Chita Government; and it is considered probable that a compromise will be arrived at between Messrs. Matsushima and Yourin by which Japan will evacuate these districts entirely and retain her hold on Northern Saghalien and Nikolaievsk.

Such a compromise, or one closely resembling it, will, it is believed, lead up to satisfactory and conclusive negotiations or a trade agreement, industrial concessions to Japanese in Siberia, the settlement of the fisheries question and the exchange of official representatives. Japan is evidently anxious to have all of these matters settled before the Washington Conference, according to the best informed opinion here, so that her delegation can attend that gathering with a fait accompli as far as the Siberian question is concerned. This, it is stated, is evident from the fact that the present negotiations were initiated by Japan and not by the Chita Government.

CHITA UNDER DURESS

Chita, on the other hand, must open official relations with other states or fall back into the arms of the Soviet Government. She is forced by economic necessity to enter into recognised trade relations with as many states as possible and the same necessity compels her to throw open her mining, agricultural and industrial resources to the co-operation of foreign capital.

It has been the policy of the Chita Government in the past to attempt to conclude agreements with China and the United States before coming to any similar arrangement with Japan. But the negotiations with China have been subject to many delays and are now, for the time being, broken off; and Chita's notes to the United States have remained unanswered so far.

Thus Japan alone remains, and it is thought likely that the Dairen negotiations will be pushed forward by both sides and will result in an agreement satisfactory in the main to both Japan and the Far Eastern Republic. Indeed, Peking opinion is certain that nothing but a satisfactory agreement can result from the Yourin-Matsushima negotiations, as both sides must come to an early and final settlement of Japanese-Siberian problems.

Freight Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company state as follows in their freight market report of yesterday:

The situation in our Outward Freight markets is as follows:

TO UNITED KINGDOM AND CONTINENT

Owing to continued floods and political and military disturbances in the Interior cargo from the centers is arriving in very small quantities which, with the shortage of present stocks is having a depressing effect on this berth.

TO UNITED STATES VIA PACIFIC AND VIA PANAMA AND SUEZ

There is very little cargo offering on any of these berths, the silk season is practically over and there is only a little tea going forward mostly via Canals owing to cheaper freight rates.

COASTWISE

The present state of affairs is no better than when we reported last, the Northern markets continue lifeless and the floods in the Yangtsze Valley and elsewhere have further aggravated the gathering in of the crops preparatory to shipment. business on the regular trade routes is normal.

Coal Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company state as follows in their coal market report of yesterday:

JAPAN COAL

There is again no change to report since last writing as the market is utterly "lifeless" and we can see no prospects of any revival until the Autumn when negotiations commence for next year's requirement.

FUSHUN COAL

No change.

FUCHUNG ANTHRACITE COAL

No change.

KAIPING COAL

The market remains on the easy side with little new business to report. The flooding of the creeks both at Shanghai and lower Yangtsze has prevented coal from moving inland with the result that fairly large stocks have accumulated here. Prices remain steady.

Siccawei Weather Reports

A JAVA SECRET IN SHANGHAI
"BATIK"
For centuries the art of Batik, of painting wonderful designs on silk in unfading and waterproof colours of great beauty, has been a carefully guarded secret in certain families in the Dutch Indies. Greatly in demand in Europe, the process is especially suitable for ladies dresses, cushions, lamp-shades and handkerchiefs.
Recently brought to Shanghai, samples may now be seen by appointment at No. 1, Yu Yuen Road, and at Hall and Holtz, Squires and Ye Gift Shop.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand state as follows in their exchange circular for week ending September 7:

Exchange:—The London price of silver, supported by consistent buying by the Indian Bazaars shows a rise of 1d. to 39⅛d. during the week. Our official rate for T.T. on London is also 1d. up to 3/8d., but in the absence of cover in the form of export paper remains 2d. under the parity of silver. Our local Gold Dealers have been selling and our rates have ruled firm; at the close 3/9¼d. was offering in the open market for cash delivery. Exports remain dull with poor prospects of improvement, but there is a great improvement in the immediate "piece goods" position reported.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 28,500,000, an increase of Tls. 1,500,000.

Political Astigmatism

JAPANESE editors, with a few notable exceptions, seem to view every American action and utterance with suspicion. They see hidden motives where none exist and credit the American government and people with ulterior designs when all that the Americans are trying to do is to reach an understanding with the rest of the world which will lead to real disarmament, real peace and real friendship and understanding. And America is trying for this at a time when it is in a better position than any other nation in the history of the world ever was to win in a race for military and naval supremacy. America is deliberately rejecting this opportunity. What nation before has taken such a course?

In the following translation of Japanese editorials, taken from The Japan Advertiser, we direct attention to the opinion expressed by the editor of the Yomiuri that "it seems as if America has taken only the buttered part of the bread." And this after America suffered 400,000 casualties on the field of battle and spent forty-one billion gold dollars in helping the Allies to win the war and asked nothing in return save peace in the stricken world. (Japan is even opposing America's landing of a cable on a tiny island in the Pacific, an island by the way that Japan never would have got if America had not entered the war on Japan's side. America asked nothing and got nothing out of the war. She got not even peace, either at home or abroad.)

The Japanese editors, it will also be noticed, are suspicious not only of America. They are suspicious of their Allies. They think the Allies are plotting with America against them. Here are the translations from one day's issues of the leading Japanese newspapers:

THE YAP QUESTION

Chugai Shogyo: We appreciate and consider proper the sincerity of the Japanese Government in having sought to solve the Yap question before the Pacific Conference, but we find it hard to understand why it should suddenly alter its attitude and concede the claims of the American Government. If the American claims are to be entertained, there would be no need to try to settle the question before the Pacific Conference. What is sought by America is the control of the cable. What value is there in Yap island except its cables and the right of controlling their landing?

It is said that the cable between Yap and Guam and the right of controlling its landing on Yap will be assigned to America, while the control of connection facilities are to be placed under the equal control of Japan, America and the Netherlands. If this report is true, it may be said that the Japanese Government has voluntarily abandoned its stand to play into the hands of the American Government. Does it not mean that the statements made by the authorities in the Diet and elsewhere are all to be betrayed? If such a concession is to be made, this might have better been done at the outset. There is no use in denouncing the clumsy diplomacy of the Japanese authorities, but could they refute the charge that they had no definite policy regarding this question? In spite of this fact, the Government spoke as if it had a firm policy in an attempt to temporise. The Government should bear the responsibility for the effects of this state of affairs as well as for its present diplomatic failure. According to the Americo-German Peace Treaty, America reserves all the rights and privileges provided for in the Paris Peace Treaty, but is not to be bound by any stipulation of this treaty relating to the League of Nations. Moreover, she assumes no obligation in respect of the provisions concerning China, Siam, Siberia and Shantung. Thus the Americo-German treaty is a very convenient one for America which reserves all freedom. From the spirit of the new treaty, it may be possible for America to urge that the Yap settlement is not an accomplished fact, but in my opinion there is absolutely no room for doubt that it is an accomplished fact. However adulatory Great Britain and France may be towards America, it will be impossible to say that it is not an accomplished fact. If not only the Yap settlement but other accomplished facts should be brought forward for reconsideration from the standpoint of America's freedom, and if any modifications or amendments are made as a result, the Paris Treaty of Peace would prove to be a dead letter. Could Great Britain and France tolerate this? The Yap settlement is entirely an accomplished fact, and if there is any objection on the part of America, the question should be settled between the particular countries concerned. There should accordingly be a limit to the concession that could be made. Otherwise, it will not be concession but humiliation.

U.S. HAS WON THE POINT

Yorodzu: We do not know what value there is in the mandatory rule of Yap, but Japan does not like to alter a decision of the League of Nations. If America's agreement to the mandate decision can be obtained by a big concession regarding the cables, the concession may be unavoidable as a means of eliminating disputes between Japan and America. Thus America has realised her object of obtaining cable interests. It is, however, doubtful how far America recognises the sincerity of Japan. How is America going to deal with the immigration question? Should it be made an issue at the Washington Conference? We hope that no questions concerning particular countries only will be brought up for discussion there.

INTO AMERICA'S HANDS

Hochi: At the Communications Conference America claimed a share in the Yap cables, and when this was refused she made trouble with the mandate itself, causing the negotiations to be much complicated. America has now obtained a share in the cable facilities, while Japan is assured of the mandate. This may seem to be settlement by compromise, but the fact is that Japan has played into the hands of America. Her desire from the outset was to secure cable facilities, and she has been enabled to satisfy it.

TREATY AND CONFERENCE

Yomiuri: The separate peace between America and Germany, of course, has an important meaning in regard to the international situation, but the conclusion of this peace is merely a preconceived affair.

From the standpoint of the Allies, the attitude of America may appear very selfish; indeed, it seems as if America has taken only the buttered part of the bread, as has been described by a German paper. But the Harding Administration's attitude of generally supporting the Allies is to make Germany fulfil the terms of the Versailles Treaty.

There are not a few among the Republicans who urge the complete scrapping of the Versailles Treaty, but from the outset the Harding Cabinet has shown a friendly attitude towards the Allies and has supported them regarding the reparation question, instead of yielding to the German temptations. This state of affairs accounts for the fact that America is having Colonel Harvey take part in various conferences in spite of her repudiation of the League of Nations. In the Americo-German treaty it is provided that America shall not be bound by any acts of the League of Nations Council or Assembly except with her express consent, but America is entitled voluntarily to take part in the reparation and other commissions. This may be taken as pointing to the intention of the American Government to fulfil the terms of the Versailles Treaty as far as possible. The German press emphasises the effect of the new treaty in strengthening the diplomatic and political basis of Germany, but it is premature to jump to the conclusion that it means a new menace to the Allies.

Some may think that a machination must be responsible for the fact that the Americo-German treaty was not published before the Powers' acceptance of the invitation to the Washington Conference, but such a notion is too far-fetched. As the Americo-German treaty does not recognise the Shantung settlement, America may refuse to regard it as an accomplished fact, but the fact that such an attitude might be assumed by America was to be expected even before her invitation to the Washington Conference was dispatched. It is not a new factor due to the Americo-German treaty. In fact, Japanese-American negotiations regarding Yap were in progress before the signing of the new treaty which provides for equal American participation in the rights and interests abandoned by Germany. The Yap question is expected to be settled before the Washington Conference, but apart from this question, there is no reason why the conference should be viewed in a pessimistic light because of the conclusion of the Americo-German treaty. From America's standpoint, both the convocation of the Washington Conference and the conclusion of a separate treaty are due to the fact that she has not ratified the Versailles Treaty. We believe, therefore, that it is but natural that the Americo-German treaty should be signed at a time when the Washington Conference is about to be held.

From the peace treaty between America and Germany, it may be perceived with what determination America will attend the Washington Conference. Mr. Harding has promised to the American people to direct his efforts towards erecting an association of nations more powerful than the League of Nations in preventing war. He has also pledged himself to a movement for the reduction of naval armaments. It need scarcely be said that the Americo-German peace treaty has added to the responsibility of President Harding for redeeming those pledges. There is thus all the greater reason why the Harding Administration should make the Washington Conference a success.

YORODZU SMELLS A RAT

Yorodzu: Preliminary negotiations are said to be proceeding between the countries which will participate in the Washington Conference, and at the same time it is felt as if some special negotiations have long since been in progress between Great Britain and America. What is being plotted by the European and American diplomats whose professions are completely different from what there are in their minds? If anything is to promote the interests of Great Britain, it will not be beneficial to America. If both Great Britain and America are to benefit, no advantage could accrue to Japan. It will perhaps be impossible for the Washington Conference to prevent the participating countries from standing at the cross-roads.

It is clear that the principal object of Great Britain in regard to the Washington Conference is to promote her interests in China. Just as it is apparently thought that a reduction of Japan's influence in China is a means of extending the rights and interests of Great Britain and America, so it seems they think that Japan's influence can be reduced by curtailing armaments. If this is really the case, they are agregiously mistaken. Our commercial development in China is not necessarily due to our political position but to geographical and racial relations. Whatever devices may be conceived by Great Britain and America, it will be impossible for them to modify this natural posture of things. Japan does not attach any special importance to her political position in China; she has never objected to the principle of equal opportunity in China or to the maintenance of her territorial integrity. Japan is only too willing to agree to arrangements for ensuring the peace of the world and for the establishment and execution of the principle of equal opportunity, but she must reject, even at the risk of her national existence, any proposal calculated to disturb peace for selfish purposes.

There can be no people who better understand China and who are more earnest than the Japanese in hoping for the happiness of the Chinese. It will be most difficult for Great Britain and America to obtain any economic interests in China without Japan's full consent. When China has become fully developed, Great Britain and America may have to repent. We fear last a cause of the decline of the two countries should arise in China.

A TRIPLE AGREEMENT

Chuo: It is waste of language to argue whether it is possible to conclude an alliance between Japan, Great Britain, and America. If it means a formal international treaty, no such instrument will be signed by America. If provision is to be made for co-operative military operations, there is no longer any need for such a pact. But if the alliance means mutual confidence and co-operation in international affairs, it may be said that the three countries are already allies, and it is hardly necessary that this relationship should be made closer in the future.

Of late both Japanese and foreign observers are apt to say that Japan and America cannot be harmonised or that collision between the two is unavoidable. This notion is perhaps due to the fact that there are frequent negotiations between them, but disputes occur even between parties which are on the best of terms, and mutual frankness only points to mutual confidence.

GERMANS AND CHINESE JUSTICE

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

SIR.—The article on your front page of yesterday's issue on this subject is interesting if it is naive. I submit it is shortsighted. It really looks to me like a whitewash article specially sent down from Peking after being edited by a German.

It starts out with a headline "Germans Undergo No Trouble with Chinese Judiciary." Oh, no, they don't and they never will! Have you forgotten Mr. Editor that just before the war, while American arms makers and locomotive manufacturers' representatives, one after the other kicked their heels idly in China and then went home, the Germans were doing a roaring trade in all such Governmental supplies?

You might then have had your headline "Germans Undergo No Trouble with Chinese Officials in Placing Orders" and you might have added "Prices invariably higher than quoted by U. S. manufacturers."

Now why then did the Germans manage to secure the orders and why is it that when they come back they will still get them? Why is it that the Government doesn't get the best value for its money? I will tell you Mr. Editor. It is because the Germans are skilled in dealing with people like Chinese and they know how to approach them. They know that a Chinese merchant really wants the cheapest price, and they also know that the Chinese official emphatically does not! What does the aforesaid official want? They know! You don't!

Now with justice it is just the same. The Chinese official who is put on the judicial stunt is every whit as human as the one put on to purchase machinery. And that is why, if you go to law in China, as all of us know who were here the day before yesterday, if you do it in the proper way, you win your case.

That is why the Germans don't mind appearing before Chinese Courts a bit. Why should they? Yours truly,

SQUEEZE.

[Editor's note: The item in question originated with a reputable American news agency in Peking. It merely attempted to set forth the facts, and these our correspondent does not question. And if the article pictured the situation accurately we were right in publishing it for the public is entitled to know what is going on and nothing is gained by suppressing the truth.]

Auction Bridge-Players' School

BY R. F. FOSTER

(Author of Foster on Auction, Auction Made Easy, Foster's Complete Hoyle, Etc.)

In speaking of the weakness of so many players when they are on the defensive, the errors into which they were likely to fall were spoken of as two kinds: errors of technique, through not having a thorough knowledge of the conventions, and errors of judgment, through not stopping to consider the situation with sufficient care.

There are some very obvious cases, such as forgetting the bids that preceded the play. One of the most common of these is when a player has started with a no-trumper, but has abandoned the bid and is playing on the defensive. It is remarkable how few persons realise the importance of playing the no-trump bidder for certain high cards in particular suits and either leading through them or finessing against them.

It takes a degree of skill not commonly shown at the bridge table to get at the distribution of a suit by figuring out what a given player has in other suits. I have repeatedly seen a player who was marked with four clubs in his hand, for instance, and one unknown card, allowed to make a trick with the unknown card by an entirely unnecessary finesse which let in the clubs.

There are many simpler situations in which a player with any proficiency in the defensive game could save tricks and rubbers simply by giving the matter a little thought. To show how such situations may arise, take the following deal, in which the declarer managed to go game by what was regarded as very clever play, no other person in the game, which was ten-table duplicate, being able to do so. Here is the distribution (see cut at the bottom of the next column.)

Z dealt and bid no-trump. A led a small heart, Z winning the trick with the ten. The next thing is our old friend the ace-jack-ten finesse, in clubs this time, B winning the ten with the king, to conceal the queen.

The return of the heart was passed up by A, which shows he understood the defensive game better than his partner, for if A plays the ace, he loses the game right there by establishing two hearts, no matter what he leads next.

Four rounds of spades followed, leaving Z in the lead. A discarding a club and B a diamond. Z then led a club, which dummy ducked, knowing B had no more hearts to lead. When the eight of clubs won, B led the diamonds. Z put the ace right on and returned the diamond, forcing B to lose two club tricks at the end.

This is very pretty, but game is made possible through B's weakness in the defensive game. Going back to the third trick, this is the situation, as B should have seen it.

Z has bid no-trumps, and he is clearly without anything in clubs above the nine, as is evident from a glance at B's own cards and dummy's. The only trick he can have in diamonds is the ace, as B has the king, queen and jack. The only other high cards in his hand are the ace, Jack, ten of spades, except what he has in hearts.

Now, if A has the ace of hearts, or even ace, jack or ace, queen, it is impossible for him to make anything but the ace, as he cannot possibly have any reentry. A glance at B's cards and the dummy and a thought of the no-trump bid is enough to show that to a certainty.

Such being the case, what is the use of returning the heart? It is the only way to tempt any but a very clever partner to throw the game by putting on the ace. What B should have done was to leave his partner's worthless heart suit alone and open his own diamond suit, while he still had the clubs safely stopped.

If B does this it is impossible for Z to make anything but his contract, the odd trick, or two by cards at the most much depending on what he does after he wins the diamond, as he may never make the king of hearts, and A may make the fourth diamond and lead through the clubs to B's encouraging discard of the club eight.

There are many opportunities to put up a strong defense against those who play such counting systems as the Robertson rule in their bidding, as the numerical value of their cards can be counted as played and when the limit that verges on a call is reached it is certain that they have no high cards still unplayed.

This is the solution of Problem No. 64, given last week, in which there were no trumps, Z to lead, and Y-Z to take five tricks.

Z leads a small spade. If B wins and leads the club ten, Z does not cover, and A must let the ten hold, Y discarding a small diamond. When B leads the diamonds Y wins with the ace and returns the spade. The two spade tricks which Z wins force two discards from A's hand, and they solve the problem.

If B refuses to win the first spade trick, Z shifts to the small club, which B wins with the ten, Y discarding a diamond. When B wins the club trick, he must lead the diamond, to save A from awkard discards. Y wins the diamond and leads the spade, and A is in the same trouble about his discards.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question—The dealer, Z, and second hand, A, both pass. Third hand, Y, bids no-trump, which B and Z pass. A then bids two diamonds, which the no-trumper doubles, B taking his partner out of the double with two no-trumps. What should the dealer say, holding five spades to the king, jack, ten, three hearts to the ace, three clubs to the ten and two small diamonds?—C. L. B.

Answer—When a player, who has bid no-trump doubles the bid of two in suit, made by an opponent, it is a conventional command to the doubler's partner to pick a suit, as the suit named against no-trumper is its weak spot. Some players regard the intervening bid by B, two no-trumps, as relieving the doubler's partner from any obligation to answer the double; but good players will always answer it with a good five-card major suit. In this case Z should call three spades, the two no-trumps by B being evidently an attempt to shut Z out. As compared to doubling B's bid the spade contract holds out the better prospect, as it might easily be a game hand, original calls of no-trump by third hand being usually pretty strong.

Question—The dealer bids one no-trump on the rubber game. Second hand doubles. Third hand holds ace and small in hearts, king, jack, ten and small in clubs; ace, queen alone in spades and five diamonds to the ten. A bets he should go two no-trumps to shut out the third hand. B bets he should pass, as he does not care what third hand shows. Which of these is correct?—J. N. McH.

Answer—Neither. The correct thing is to redouble. Why go to two no-trumps, forcing the dealer to win three odd, when one odd at redoubled value is enough to equal four by carded Then, if third hand bids double anything he names.

POKER

Question—We find in one Hoyle that if a card is exposed, the next card must be dealt to the next active player. In another Hoyle we find that if a card is exposed, cards must be dealt to all the other active players first. What is the exact official rule governing this point?—H. M. Z.

Answer—That depends on when the card was exposed. If the card was found exposed in the pack for the original deal, or if more than one card is exposed in dealing, there must be a new deal. If the card is exposed in dealing for the draw, the player to whom it would have fallen cannot take it, nor can it be replaced until all the remaining active players has been helped.

Question—A pot is opened for the limit. Three men come in. Just as the fourth puts up his chips, the third man exclaims: "Hold on! I made a mistake. I am not in," and takes down his chips. Is this allowable?—F. G.

Answer—No; because chips once placed in the pool, even by mistake, must remain. The fact that another man was coming in, which opened the way for a raise from some one, might easily be the real reason for withdrawing an ante.

PINOCHLE

Question—In playing auction with a widow we have had several disputes as to the odds against finding a certain card, such as the jack of spades to fill out a trump sequence, in the widow. Is there any accurate way of determining this factor?—E. B. B.

Answer—If each player holds fifteen cards, with three in the widow, there must be thirty-three unknown cards, of which thirty are out of reach, and three in the widow. That is 10 to 1 against a named card being in the widow; but as there are two spade jacks, the odds are only 5 to 1.

CARUSO IS A LOVER IN HIS FIRST PICTURE!

Yes, Enrico Caruso, the greatest singer-actor in the history of this planet in motion pictures. In "My Cousin" he takes the role—to the life you bet—of a famous tenor. Being a genius he also takes another role in the same picture, namely, that of a poor sculptor, who falls desperately in love with his beautiful model. Caruso looks like a different man in each role, yet you have a feeling of the same mysterious brilliance underlying both. A picture to SEE—SEE IT!
